Guerrillas Seize Chance To Push Through Floods

SAIGON (AP)—Communist guerrillas advanced southward through flood-ravaged South Viet Nam north of Saigon Friday while in the capital Premier Tran Van Huong stood off two challenges to his new regime.

Montreal Invaded By CORE

MONTREAL (UPI) — Some 30 Negro and white pickets from the Syracuse, N.Y., chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality Friday picketed a downtown hotel while the World Public Relations convention was in progress.

The pickets demanded that the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. end its "policy of racial tokenism and integrate its work force."

An associate of the company is a delegate to the convention.

Layoffs Sweep Away Records of Layoffs

EAST FARMINGDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Employment at Republic Aviation Co. has reached an all-time low because of the phase-out of the F-105 fighter-bomber. But the company admits it doesn't know how low.

A Republic spokesman explained the firm was unable to keep track of the number of workers being laid off because "some of the people who keep the records were laid off."

Indirect Aid to UN

Door Left Open For Soviet Offer

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States in effect has invited the Soviet Union to make an indirect payment to solve the dispute over its debt to United Nations peace-keeping funds.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, after a meeting with Secretary-General U Thant, said Friday his government would be satisfied with payments by the Soviet Union "in any form" without prejudice to the legal position of the Soviet Union "or anyone else."

WILL LEAD MOVE

If no solution is found when the General Assembly convenes Dec. 1, the U.S. will lead a move to take away Soviet voting rights on the grounds its debt now exceeds two years' assessments.

The Soviet Union has hinted that it might walk out if it is refused a vote.

Stevenson's statement left the door open for the Russians to make a voluntary contribution to some UN agency not connected with peace-keeping. This would get around the Soviet and French view that the assessments in question are illegal because they were voted by the assembly rather than the Security Council, where the countries have veto power.

Chou Leaves Moscow

Friends—That's All

MOSCOW (AP)—Chou En-lai had a farewell talk with Soviet leaders Friday that seemed to have no curative influence on the Soviet-Chinese split. Then the Chinese premier and his entourage took a plane for Peking.

Chou and his delegation of experts talked with the new Soviet leaders headed by Communist party secretary Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin "in a frank, comradely atmosphere," a communist said.

NOTHING MORE

It said nothing more. Instead, the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda reiterated policies, such as peaceful coexistence with the United States, that are denounced by Peking. Throughout

Albania: Still No

VIENNA (UPI) — The Albanian Communist party declared itself still firmly opposed to Kremlin policy Friday on grounds that the new Soviet leadership is still "revisionist."

The pronouncement came in an editorial published by the Communist party organ Zeri i Popullit.

China had denounced both the preparatory meeting and conference as Soviet efforts to split the Communist movement. The Kremlin insisted they were to bring unity.

'Empire-Building' Hospital Lashed

'Maladministration' At Jubilee--Martin

By BOB DONAHUE

Health Minister Eric Martin Friday called the administration of the Royal Jubilee Hospital "empire builders" and cited "months of maladministration" at the hospital.

He was commenting on a suggestion by Dr. D. M. Whiteley, chief of the medical staff at the Jubilee, that the Veterans' Hospital be taken over as a convalescent wing to the Jubilee.

"If the federal government did turn control of the hospital over to the province I would recommend it not be turned over to the Royal Jubilee because of months of maladministration."

"The situation will only improve when the administration of that hospital ceases to be empire builders," said the minister.

He blamed the increased length of stay for patients at the hospital on "lack of proper medical supervision."

Mr. Martin was critical of the general administration and medical supervision.

NO SPARRING

"The patient days at the Jubilee have increased to 11.1 from 10.8 last year. This has deprived 568 persons of hospital beds since the beginning of the year," he said.

"There has been no sparring between the federal and provincial governments over transfer of the Veterans' Hospital," he said. "They haven't even suggested it."

"They just won't lie down—those people who are making all these wild statements," sighed the minister.

FEELINGS CLEAR

Meanwhile, Royal Canadian Legion officials leveled a broadside at any suggestion the Veterans' Hospital be taken over to alleviate the bed shortage in Greater Victoria.

Declared zone commander S. J. Maynes: "We don't have to go around answering any stray MD. Our feelings have been made abundantly clear."

EASY WAY OUT

"I'm glad this bed problem has been given a good airing. It pinpoints they are having problems of their own. They should work them out on their own."

"Taking over our hospital is only adopting the least line of resistance. It is an easy way out for them," he declared.

Hernia Halts Title Fight

BOSTON—A hernia condition, present since childhood but which erupted only last night at dinner time, sent heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay to hospital for an emergency operation.

The operation, successfully performed, means that Monday's title fight with Sonny Liston is indefinitely postponed. See story on Page 10.

15-Cent City Bus Fare Urged for All-Diesel Fleet

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 2 1/2 to five cent fare increase to finance a changeover to diesel buses was proposed Friday for the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority's transit system.

John Curtis of Philadelphia, a transit consultant, made the proposal at a Public Utilities Commission hearing into Hydro's proposed fare increases in Vancouver and Victoria.

NECESSARY AMOUNT

The 2 1/2 to five cent increase would raise the estimated $18,000,000 necessary for the changeover from electric trolley and gasoline buses, he said.

His proposal followed an earlier statement by Thomas Peacock, another transit consultant, that Hydro would save $575,000 a year by switching to an all-diesel fleet.

TEN MUNICIPALITIES

Both consultants are working for 10 Vancouver and Victoria municipalities which are fighting Hydro's proposal to raise fares to 25 cents cash from 15 cents here and 13 cents in Victoria.

Mr. Curtis proposed a cash fare of 20 cents cash and two token fares for 35 cents in Vancouver. For Victoria, he proposed an increase to 15 cents cash. Mr. Curtis said his proposal could offset a projected debt of $3,800,000 this year.

Syrian Border

Planes End Battle

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes destroyed Syrian border posts with napalm and gunfire Friday after a ground battle set off by Syrian shooting, an Israeli military spokesman announced. He said two Israeli civilians were wounded in the two-hour fight.

Meanwhile, a Syrian military spokesman said seven Syrians were killed and 26 others wounded in the clash.

GUNS, TANKS

The Israeli spokesman said the Syrians started the fight with machine-gun fire, then lobbed in mortar shells and finally brought up two Second World War tanks.

The spokesman said the tanks were knocked out by fire from two Israeli tanks.

13th Adds Insult To Injury

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — The next time Friday the 13th rolls around, Oakville farmer Don Chapman will probably stay in bed.

Mr. Chapman left for work in nearby Clarkson as usual Friday and, along the way, hit a dog. While trying unsuccessfully to avoid the animal, he drove his car into the ditch. That blew a tire.

He left his car to attend to the injured dog. The dog bit him, tearing his pants. He changed the tire on his car and drove home to change his clothes. There he discovered he had locked himself out of the house.

Going in by a cellar window, Mr. Chapman put his foot in a tub of home-made beer he was preparing for Christmas.

He finally got to work, late of course, and was informed that he would be docked an hour's pay.

Anglican, United Churches Offered Proposal for Union

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A suggested plan for eventual union of Canada's two largest Protestant denominations—the Anglican and United Churches of Canada—was announced here Friday night.

It approved by the Anglican General Synod and the United Church General Council, highest courts of the two churches, the union would create the Church of Canada (United - Anglican) with a membership of more than 3,800,000.

The plan is the result of three years of discussions by 39 lay and clerical members of a joint committee appointed by the London conference of the United Church and the Anglican Diocese of Huron.

The committee, however, made it clear its proposals were not made on behalf of both communions, but rather aids in accelerating conversations towards unity.

HEADED TALKS

Co-chairmen of the joint committee were Rev. Kenneth B. Keefe, dean of Huron and director of St. Paul's Cathedral here, and Rev. M. A. J. Waters, pastor of London's Robinson Memorial United Church.

Speaking on behalf of the committee, Rt. Rev. George N. Luxton, Anglican bishop of Huron, said the next step towards ultimate union will be for the two national unity committees to submit a plan to the Anglican General Synod and the United Church General Council for further consideration and discussion.

Snow Spreads Over Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta's first big snowstorm of the season fanned out north and south Friday, with snow reported everywhere from the southern border to Fort St. John, B.C., 450 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The hub of the storm moved north from Edmonton, with Wagner reporting the heaviest fall—a total of 8.3 inches.

Church was that, in keeping with its basic of union of 1952, it would always strive to unite with other communions in the hope that eventually a national Canadian church would emerge.

EPISCOPATE

The proposed plan of union would see the adoption of the episcopate—office of bishop—in the new church of Canada. The Anglican Church has traditionally had bishops, but the United Church has never had them. In 1950, however, the United Church General Council affirmed its acceptance of the episcopate.

Dockyard Blood Clinic Gets Record 381 Pints

The Red Cross mobile blood clinic collected a record 381 pints of blood from service and civilian personnel at HMC Dockyard Friday, to bring the two-day clinic total to more than 600 pints.

Pope Donates Crown to Poor

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI offered his gold and diamond-studded coronation crown Friday as a gift to the poor.

Vatican officials said the move was the start of a world fund drive to help fight poverty.

Man Dies After Fight With Boy

BELLA BELLA, B.C. (CP)—Ivan Phillips Starr, 28, stabbed during a fracas with an 11-year-old boy, died in hospital here Friday.

RCMP said Starr broke up a fight between two youngsters outside the community hall at Klemm, 30 miles northwest of here and 300 miles northwest of Vancouver. When the youngsters resumed fighting, he intervened again and was stabbed in the abdomen while struggling with the 11-year-old, police said.

ON ALTAR

Announcement of the Pope's gift was made in St. Peter's Basilica at a special Byzantine rite mass attended by the Pontiff. After eucemical council secretary-general Pericle Felici told of the offer, the Pope personally placed the crown on the altar as a symbolic gesture.

PLEADS FOR SUPPORT

Huong begged the high council for an end to political bickering and support for the civilian government to save the country from greater chaos. Apparently unsatisfied by his answers to questions, the council called a meeting for Saturday. It can throw him out of office, just as it put him in.

'Empire Builders'

"They should be concentrating on getting the empty beds in their hospitals filled before they start talking about taking over our hospital."

"We are adamant in saying we are opposed to anybody taking over the Veterans' Hospital until we are shown adequate provisions will be made to take care of all of the veterans."

USEFUL PURPOSE

"We think the Veterans' Hospital is serving a very useful purpose now," he said.

Meanwhile Dr. Whitley estimated it would only cost $300,000 to $400,000 to provide separate veterans' facilities.

AFTER TREATMENT

He suggested patients from the Jubilee could be transferred there after acute treatment, thereby freeing between 100 and 150 beds in the Jubilee.

Result of a bed survey completed this week showed a shortage of 160 hospital beds in the Greater Victoria area.

Dr. Whitley said one of the major reasons Victoria hospitals have a higher than average length of stay for patients is because patients here average 18-years-of-age older than in any other centre.

HEALTH MINISTER

He attacked Health Minister Martin's suggestion that all that was needed to alleviate the waiting list was co-operation from medical men, saying there were several committees set up already to insure hospital bed utilization.

AMONG THE COMMITTEES

Among the committees already in operation are: a long-stay committee to ensure beds are not used too long; a committee to review every hospital case; a tissue committee which checks results of operations, and a committee to police the qualifications of all doctors.

'Sleepy' Space Engineer Gets Citizenship After All

SEATTLE (AP)—The heart of the court softened Friday and Albert Smith, Englishman, will become Albert Smith, citizen of the United States of America.

U.S. District Judge W. T. Beeks, who denied Smith's application Monday because he thought the Boeing Co. aerospace engineer was asleep during the naturalization ceremony, granted it Friday.

"I am very happy," Smith said.

APOLOGIZED

Smith wrote Beeks an apology "for giving the appearance of disrespect."

But he denied being asleep and, when told he would have to sign a supplemental petition for citizenship, refused because it required him to apologize for his "demeanor and conduct" in court.

Smith, 39, balked at the word

"conduct" and said he would not apologize for something of which he was not guilty.

Judge Beeks said Smith's apology was dignified and possessed the ring of sincerity. He issued a memorandum opinion which said, in part:

REVOKED

"This court has not the slightest desire to use the power of its office to force petitioner into an admission which he in good faith believes not true."

The judge revoked his order

Fellowships On Labor $5,000 Each

Beginning next year, fellowships of up to $5,000 each will be awarded to Canadian senior scholars who wish to undertake research in labor relations.

The fellowships will be awarded by the federal labor department, in co-operation with the International Labor Organization, for study of labor problems at the International Institute of Labor Studies in Geneva.

Applications, which must be received by Dec. 31, are invited from qualified candidates from universities, industry, labor and government. The amount of the grants will vary with the duration of the fellowships.

New Chief Takes Over On Jan. 1

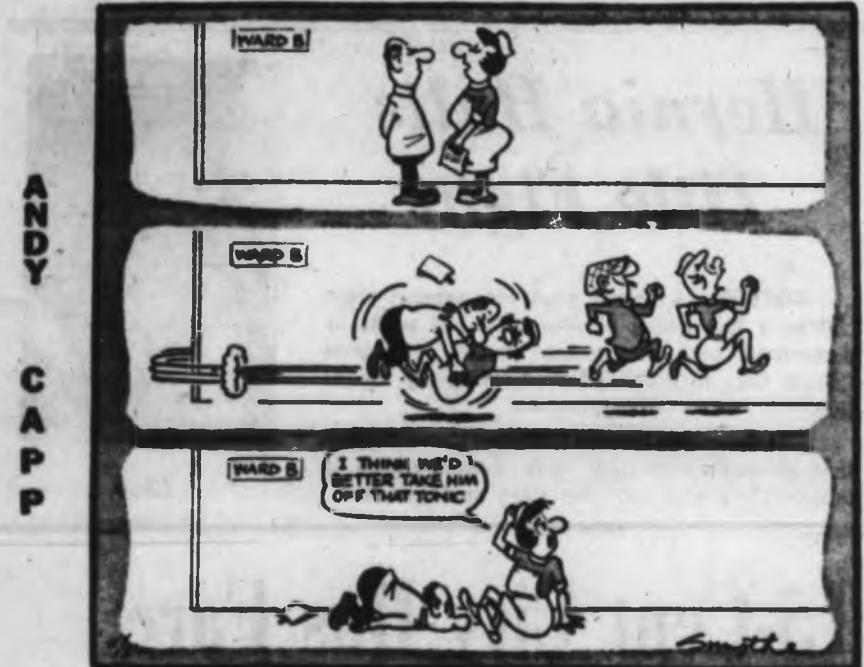

Gilbert E. C. Rumley of Prince Rupert will take over as general manager of the Saanich Fruit Growers Association Jan. 1.

The Vancouver-born man worked for 14 years with the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association and is now food floor manager of the Prince Rupert Co-Op.

He replaces Herbert Bickford, who resigned to join Growers Wine Ltd.

Your Good Health

When Taken In by a Quack Just Swallow Your Pride

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

I've just had another one—a letter from a reader who in this case changed "doctors" temporarily.

It's an intelligent letter, except for one thing.

I won't even go into the specific trouble this reader had; it concerns a rash and some other symptoms. Her doctor prescribed a form of cortisone, and she encountered what may—and very well may not—have been a side-effect. It may have had nothing to do with the cortisone at all, I suspect.

To quote a bit from her letter: "I then went to another doctor who told me to go on a diet of steak and potatoes three times a day, and to have injections of an extract called —"

"I kept getting such encouraging words from this doctor that I continued through six treatments—he insisted on nine—but I left him when I became aware that I was being treated by either a genius or a madman."

She then went back to her original doctor, who made all sorts of laboratory tests and asked if she had taken anything.

She was ashamed and didn't tell him about the injections.

CHARLATAN

It's obvious, of course, that the lady got into the clutches of a charlatan who claimed to be some sort of doctor but was not an M.D. or D.O. What kind of stuff he injected is hard to guess. She was smart enough to gather that she was being taken in by a faker.

But up to now she hasn't been smart enough to tell her own doctor the truth.

What she did isn't so very unusual. It's a miracle that lots of people make. That's why quacks, in spite of our laws, exist in such numbers, and manage to cheat the public out of some hundreds of millions of dollars a year.

TAKEN IN

But even if you've been taken in by a quack, swallow your pride. Tell your doctor, "I guess I've been foolish, but I had some treatments from so-and-so who calls himself a doctor of such-and-such. And he gave me some injections of what he called Superdoopertone. Or whatever."

There's no law against doing foolish things. We know that some patients go chasing after will-o-the-wisps at times, and are sorry afterward. There's nothing to be gained by bawling them out.

But we can do a better job, and usually save some tests and money, if the patients tell us what happened.

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend suggested cobra venom for arthritis. Is this treatment recommended?—A.H.H.

Medicines containing cobra venom were popular years ago but are not commonly used today. Many treatments for arthritis have been in vogue over the years, and this is one of them. With all of them, there have been reports of some degree of relief, but most of them have not stood the test of time, and have not proved to be "cures." One of the difficulties with cobra venom was that allergic reactions quite often occurred.

'Congo Hostages in Grave Danger'

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Robert Thompson, leader of Canada's Social Credit party, reported Friday night he has information that three Belgians held hostage by Congolese rebels in Stanleyville have been executed and three more are under sentence of death.

He said that according to his information, from diplomatic sources, the executions followed some sort of trial by a rebel military court.

Thompson is here with senior foreign affairs officer Michael Gauvin on a special Canadian government mercy mission.

CHARGE D'AFFAIRES

Gauvin, who arrived Friday from Geneva, was the Canadian charge d'affaires in The Congo for three years.

The two are having a round of talks with African leaders in a bid to work out a plan to rescue some 800 foreigners held hostage by the rebels.

Thompson said captives in Stanleyville came from 15 nations. Among the captives were 26 Canadians and about 30 Americans as well as people from India, Kenya, Haiti and Argentina. Most, however, were Belgian.

He returns to Addis Ababa today with Gauvin and with International Red Cross delegate general for Africa, George Hoffman, for more talks.

Thompson already had a meeting with Kenyatta who is head of The Congo reconciliation commission.

Thompson said he thought the hostages all were in grave danger.

"As far as rebel purposes are concerned, it is true the hostages are better alive than dead," he said. "But our information is that control is breaking down.

"The danger is that as military action presses in on Stanleyville, the Congolese rebels may run wild.

"We are fighting against them," Thompson said.

'Open Provocation'

Red China Denounces Sub's Visit to Japan

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China today denounced as a "threat" to peace in Asia the visit to Japan of the U.S. nuclear-powered submarine Sea Dragon.

Radio Peking, in a broadcast monitored here, charged that the Sea Dragon's trip to the port city of Sasebo was the "most open provocation of Japan's independence and sovereignty and is a demonstration of its threat to peace in the Far East and Asia."

The charge was made in a commentary entitled, U.S. Nuclear Submarines, Get Out of Japan.

A similar stand was taken Thursday by Radio Moscow in a broadcast to Japan. It said the Soviet Union cannot remain unconcerned as long as a "foreign country has made war preparations on Japanese soil ... against Japan's friend, the Soviet Union."

'FORCIBLY'

Radio Peking said "United States imperialism had ignored the strong opposition of the Japanese people and forcibly effected the call of the Sea Dragon at Sasebo." It made no mention of the fact that the Japanese government had invited the visits of U.S. nuclear-powered submarines to Japanese port cities for crew rest and recreation.

The Sea Dragon put to sea today following a three-day visit to Sasebo marked by a series of left-wing demonstrations.

The charges arose from a fight Oct. 2 in which sharp picaroons, used in handling logs, were wielded as weapons. One man is still in hospital in New Westminster with injuries suffered in the fight.

The four accused men were released on bail of $2,000 each.

Attempted Murder Charged

MISSION (CP)—Charges of attempted murder and wounding with intent to maim or disfigure were laid Friday against four men in Mission police court.

Dalwinder Singh Sidhu, Gurnam Singh Sundhu, Jagder Singh Sidhu and Kehar Singh Darsich were remanded to Jan. 12. They were also charged with assault causing bodily harm.

The charges arose from a fight Oct. 2 in which sharp picaroons, used in handling logs, were wielded as weapons. One man is still in hospital in New Westminster with injuries suffered in the fight.

Hollywood Stunt Man Killed on Movie Set

GALLUP, N.M. (UPI)—Movie stunt man and actor Bill Williams, 43, was killed in a Friday-the-13th accident on the set of the western epic, "The Hallelujah Trail," while cast and crew members, including his wife, looked on in horror.

Lion Owner Accused In Death

QUEBEC (CP)—Georges Baker, 54, was charged Friday with criminal negligence in the death of a three-month-old child killed by Baker's pet lion.

Baker pleaded not guilty and was remanded to Nov. 20.

The baby girl, Manon Tanguy, was clawed on the head and throat by the lion a week ago and died in hospital.

The lion was shot by police the following day.

Williams apparently misjudged a leap from a wagon seconds before it plunged over a cliff on the western New Mexico desert, and was crushed underneath.

His wife Catherine, a visitor to the set, was a witness to the accident, which occurred on the scheduled final day of shooting of the Mirisch-Kappa film.

Crasher Jailed Two Years

BURNABY (CP)—Kenelm Jesson, 17, was given the maximum jail sentence Friday for crashing a party and assaulting a man.

"This was a brutal, vicious and unprovoked attack on a complete stranger," said Magistrate Murray Hyde in handing down a sentence of two years less one day, plus 12 months indefinite.

Court was told Jesson and another youth crashed a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Thierghien, Oct. 12, threw Mr. Thierghien down the stairs and joined six other youths in attacking him.

Mr. Thierghien spent a week in hospital.

Welcome to Victoria

THE QUEBEC mayors and their wives who are visiting Victoria this weekend can be assured of a warm and genuine welcome by our community.

Victorians have ever been aware of the important role that Canadians of French extraction have played in the development of our vast country and fully recognize the continuing contribution the people of la belle province have made toward the cultural life of this nation.

Many of our distinguished Quebec visitors may be impressed by the differences between our way of life and theirs, but as many will be quick to observe the similarities between us as individuals over a wide and varied range of subjects.

Certainly through whatever they see or hear in Victoria they should have no occasion to regard themselves as strangers in a foreign land.

We, for our part, are glad of this opportunity to extend to them the handclasp of friendship and Canadian brotherhood in the sincere hope that it will never weaken though it be stretched over the width of the continent.

Tightening the Belt

THE SPEED at which the British Labor Party has brought in its emergency budget following its narrow victory at last month's election indicates one of two things.

It may mean that Britain's economic plight is indeed extremely serious—which Sir Alec Douglas-Home has denied—or that the Labor government is determined to carry out its promised redistribution of wealth immediately and forthrightly in case it should be defeated in a snap vote which would force a return to the polls at short order.

James Callaghan, the new chancellor of the exchequer, says the increased taxes are absolutely necessary but at the same time most of the new money he raises will not be used to right Britain's adverse balance of trade, but to provide new welfare benefits, including the removal of the two shilling basic doctor's prescription fee.

Mr. Callaghan professes to feel sorry about the increase in the gasoline tax which will raise the price to about 70 cents a gallon in our money, because it will hit not only industry but the small man's weekend pleasure motoring.

On the other hand he sees absolutely nothing wrong with the increase of 6d in the income tax—making the standard rate now nine shillings in the pound—because he says income tax is the fairest way of all of raising money.

"Those who make most pay most," he argues. Paradoxically, however, the chancellor was quick to assure his labor supporters that the load of the new income tax would not be borne evenly. He has the new tax graduated in such a way that married people earning less than £2,000 a year ($6,000) will hardly be affected at all by the new levy.

What is worrying the non-labor vote in Britain—54 per cent in the October election—is whether the supplementary budget, and the decision to go ahead with the rationalization of steel—are really the answer to Britain's current problems.

Most will admit that the tariff surcharge on imports is bound to help in reducing the country's adverse balance of trade, but they question strongly what good the gasoline tax can do, because gasoline is no longer a luxury, but an essential cost factor in practically every business from farming to home building. Nor is the rationalization of the steel industry likely to improve the efficiency of that vital industry.

Mr. Callaghan promises further social reforms and tax extractions in his first full budget next spring, but meantime the British, tightening their belts for the eighth or ninth time since the war, can take little consolation from the fact that they are the most heavily taxed nation this side of the iron curtain.

Scant Reward

THE PRIME MINISTER has promised to review the 10 per cent increase in war disability pensions announced in Parliament this week. There is ample reason why he should. No veteran will grow fat on it.

A ten per cent increase in anything may loom large, but for the maimed ex-serviceman it does not work out that way. More than 60 per cent of disabled veterans, as the Royal Canadian Legion points out, receive 20 per cent or less of the maximum possible. For this group the increase would be $3.60 a month.

For some 5,000 of them, in fact, those with a rated 10 per cent disability, they would get an extra pittance of 90 cents a month. The national exchequer certainly isn't erring on the side of compassion.

Succeeding governments never have, and one of the displeasing features of these pension scales from the outset has been the grudging recognition of veterans' claims. The veterans have had to fight long and hard through the years for legitimate compensation; one hesitates to think what would have been their fate had they not had organizations to press their interests.

Even the totally disabled veteran, under the increased scales, would receive less than $2,400 per annum, which in view of his physical welfare needs and current wage levels is a scant reward for his sacrifice.

How unequal the equation of disability pensions has been is reflected in the original premise on which these were based in 1920, when the maximum amount was related to the salary of a janitor in government service. The veterans surely deserved better.

Even so, the Legion emphasizes, a janitor's pay has gone up in the past 40 years by 388 per cent; whereas the pension rate has increased only by 240 per cent. Further comment seems unnecessary.

Money does not make up for the handicap and often pain of war disability, but at least those who suffer lastingly from their wounds should be dealt with in a spirit matching their service. Veterans should not have to prise inch by inch any concession in their behalf.

Danger Signal

MR. PICKERSGILL: That was what Mr. Fulton recommended and that was what the Diefenbaker government, after that conference, asked all the provinces to approve. We had rather expected that they would not deny the parentage of their own child, because we were generous enough, honest enough and fair enough to give them full credit for it.

Mr. Woollams: That is what makes it so dangerous, when you do that.

Washington Calling

Need for Massive Rebuilding

By MARQUES CHILDS

THE doctors are hovering around the bedside, each with a different prescription for the unhappy patient. The Republican party is sick, perhaps mortally sick, and no easy formula of "reilly round the old flag" will do more than disguise the peril.

The first essential is not to start talking about survivors of the wreck who might be candidates in 1968. That ignores the history of the past three decades when only for eight years, and then thanks to a national hero, Dwight Eisenhower, have the Republicans been able to take power.

The first task is a massive reorganization of the party machinery from top to bottom. It will take dedicated and continuing effort by knowledgeable men and women in every part of the United States with sufficient belief in moderate Republicanism to build what will be, in effect, a new party. Whether it can be done is highly questionable.

hope from the Republican leadership in Congress. House Minority Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana took a jaunt view of the Democratic landslide shrinking his minority by perhaps 10 seats. The fact that more Republican seats were not lost, he said in a statement that had almost comic overtones, was a "tribute to basic Republican strength" and a sure indicator of a "real Republican comeback." Down on the floor, as one governor sourly remarked, there is no place to go but up.

The catch, however, is that both Sen. Barry Goldwater and his vice-presidential candidate, Rep. William F. Miller, have ties with Congress. Halleck and his opposite number on the Senate side, Everett McKinley Dirksen, can dig in their heels and make any change difficult, if not impossible.

There will be a continuing loyalty to Goldwater if not also to Miller, who was Republican national chairman before his selection at San Francisco. Goldwater's strength came from senators such as Roman Hruska of Nebraska, who survived the deluge, and Carl Curtis of the same state.

As head of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, Goldwater travelled tirelessly across the country talking to dinners of fat-cat Republicans who cheered his right-wing views and reached for their cheque books. His specialty, as the election showed, had little relation to the qualifications of a presidential candidate.

Now, optimistic chirping is heard about the emergence of a two-party rivalry in the South. The Republicans took five House seats in Alabama and one in Mississippi. They now have Sen. Strom Thurmond in South Carolina.

But surely this is not the base for a revived party. Southern Republicans are, on the whole, to the right of Southern Democrats. And the loud noises of race and reaction they made in the late campaign frightened Northern Republicans out of their wits. The pieces of the puzzle are on the floor. How can they be put back together is still to be determined.

International Relations

Favorable Atmosphere

By HOWARD GREEN
Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

WITH the American election over we can see more clearly than before the road on which the nations will be journeying for the next few years—or perhaps one should say months.

There is still much uncertainty and events could transpire which would quickly change the situation. For example, if a serious incident occurs in Berlin or the Soviet Union attempts to cut off access of the Western nations to that city. Similarly if the Russians and their allies walk out of the United Nations because of action to deprive them of their vote for non-payment for peace-keeping operations.

However the international atmosphere at present is good and may well grow much better. The United States government is showing restraint and a willingness to co-operate with other nations which is deeply significant and has been welcomed even by the new Soviet leaders. They in turn are emphasizing the necessity for nations to work together.

This stand is far removed from the sabre-rattling of the Red Chinese allies; the Russians appear to be holding the line against demands for an end to a policy of co-existence with the West. The result might even be a modification of the harsh Chinese attitude.

One change by Red China which could make a great difference in the world would be for her to drop her claim to Formosa. Such action would probably gain her membership in the United Nations and recognition from many of the countries which today refuse to grant it.

Chinese leaders must know that they will not be handed Formosa in either the near or the distant future. In the first place a majority of the nations of the world would be unwilling to support turning the people on the island over to the Communists. In addition the defence line for the west coast of North America runs from Japan through Okinawa and Formosa to the Philippines; the United States, Canada and their allies would be foolish to allow a Communist fortress to be established on the island.

But to return to the broad world picture. With pledges of co-operation in the air the present seems to be the time to work for a further reduction of tension.

It should never be forgotten that arms production does not stand still. Day by day deadly weapons come off the assembly line and research for ways of making even more deadly ones continues. Unless and until agreement is reached between the United States and the Soviet Union and their respective allies on a program of arms reduction—properly supervised—there will be no real cut in armament production.

The key problem in this field is how to prevent more nations acquiring nuclear weapons. Most world leaders favor an agreement to restrict their ownership to nations now possessing them. But as yet there is no prospect of such an agreement being reached; on the contrary we may well see a scramble to acquire them by 15 or 20 additional nations.

No prophetic vision is required to see how much closer such a development would bring the world to a nuclear war—and the end of civilization.

Progress in arms reduction is bound to be slow but the co-operative attitude now prevailing should make rapid progress possible in the field of improving the lot of the less developed nations.

On this question there is little difference of opinion among the developed nations—of which Canada is one. Most of these countries have already given much help and they have shown considerable idealism in so doing.

They have other motives of course and this is particularly true of the great powers. In some cases aid is given to gain the support of the recipient country—or to prevent a rival getting such support. Canada has not been in the business of buying support by giving aid but she does hope to build markets thereby.

One final thought. With a reduction in world tension it becomes more difficult to hold alliances closely together. This is the situation today in both the

Genius—and Ordinary

Charlie Chaplin

By SHAUN HERRON

THE Invisible Government," a book — primarily about the CIA, an agency much in the public mind at the moment — is on the best seller list and "The FBI Nobody Knows" is profiling from the official and public censure directed at Mr. Hoover's agency, but Mr. Charlie Chaplin has had nothing to help him and his "Autobiography" was carpingly reviewed and has dropped behind.

It's true that a book club took it up, but my friend the book-seller says it is no run-away. The same book club took up "My Life with Picasso" by his best known mistress who lived with him for ten years and bore him two children. Orders were good, before publication date.

Mr. Chaplin has not been forgiven. He is believed by the American matron of high moral tone and politically conservative mind to have lived a life of moral turpitude, and this is too much. If he had been purer politically he might have been forgiven for having advocated a second front before the Allies were ready, but his "moral turpitude" gave his political "moral turpitude" an over-all squalor no patriotic matron can be expected to forgive.

The same matrons will read the quiet corners of their houses and if his morals fill them with pleasant alarm, his politics will not frighten them; his amours, his politics and his fortune were all made in Europe. And he is a painter, not a movie star. The matrons of the classless society are not unaware of the distinctions of class.

Even Mr. Chaplin's admiring reviewers have exposed their intestinal raw spots: he has not discussed his sex life or his techniques of movie making; he has included some of his political views and he is a name dropper and health bruiser; he is a comic genius and a bad writer; he is a tightwad and he has failed to record his generous benefactions to his old two-reeler crews. Wherever Chaplin turns, reviewers who profess to own his friendship, praise his genius and nibble at his person.

He has written a bad book, they say, and he has failed to reveal the real Charlie Chaplin we all want to see. There is another possible point of view. It is that he has written a very ordinary book and he has thereby revealed the real Charlie Chaplin some of his professed friends do not want to see.

Chaplin is a clown of genius. The happy conjunction of his genius and the right and new vehicle, the moving picture, was one of the accidents that rocketed some men beyond the reach of competitors or imitators.

But there is nothing in genius which requires that a man of genius must be able to analyze his gift. The painter may know when his brush stroke is right.

It is not a necessary part of genius to be able to explain why it is right. It is part of Chaplin's self-revelation in this rather ordinary document that he offers no analysis of the genius of the little tramp. He is not capable of such analysis.

In the incessant anecdote of all bad autobiography, his comic eye is evident enough whether he describes an encounter with an unknown and amorous girl in a New York hotel or with a famous actress at whose dinner party he arrived three months late. Chaplin dissects the incident intuitively and puts it together again in terms of visual comedy.

He drops famous names lavishly. But this seems to me to be a most curious charge to make against the famous. What other names would they drop unless they had the gift of analysis and characterization? The howl would be louder if Chaplin recorded only his encounters with cab drivers and postmen whose names were not familiar to any but their own relatives. Chaplin knew the famous, he liked to know them; it is one of his major satisfactions that he belongs among them and that among men of genius he is recognized as a man of genius. This is Charlie Chaplin.

He is charged with revealing his enjoyment of riches. But what do the critics want? A rich man who enjoys being rich, denying his enjoyment of riches? If they really wanted Chaplin, why have they failed to recognize that in this book they are getting him?

It is evident that Chaplin's friends and critics — for all who have written have declared their friendship — wanted a profound book, full of character studies, technical knowledge, self-analysis, sturdy self-defence and Freudian explanations. What they got displeased them.

For it is equally evident that Charlie Chaplin, the abandoned wall who made his first million at 25, has always been a deeply insecure human being, haunted by the fear of losing his money, never quite sure of the stability of his success, deeply scarred by the experiences of his youth, and endowed with no other outstanding talent than the genius to project in tragicomic terms the miraculous survival and precarious triumph of the weak and insecure.

Beyond this he is, like most of us, an ordinary little man whose book reveals his ordinariness. His insecurities and fears married every intimate relationship he had with women until he met the girl who presumably required nothing of Chaplin but his genius in its place and the common-place where it belonged: the former Miss O'Neill who has long been his wife and the mother of most of his children.

A man who has as many "friends" as Charlie Chaplin has when his brush stroke is right.

Deer and Salmon

This is the silly season, when the woods and hedges are bristling with gun, and trigger happy talk turns to the tagging of deer. The season when the world hereabouts is stuffed with hunting widows whose husbands are out in the wilds shooting each other.

Some of us, less doughty, do our duty by simply taking the family for a trip to Goldstream to see the salmon struggling at the end of their life-cycle.

But only to find ourselves held up for inspection in long lines of traffic by very polite policemen with a duty to perform, putting their pressure on the gunmen who illegally sport arms with tagless spoils.

If only we could see the salmon at some other season when gun licences are not for sale.

CLARENCE S. GOODE.

Credit Costs

I understand a Commons-Senate joint committee and a select committee of the Ontario legislature are studying the subject of tenders in the retail credit field being required to state the costs of their annual interest rates charged on time payments.

Many arguments are brought forward against the interest rates being disclosed and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce executive council content this would frighten away potential customers. There is a great need all the same, to bring to these customers' attention that repayment of their debt is costing 12 per cent, 15 per cent or 20 per cent annually.

The Chamber argues that "credit is the vital bridge that links mass production to mass consumption and undue tampering with its delicate mechanism might be felt throughout the whole economy." So we are consumers to cross the bridge without knowing that the toll on a $1,000 purchase may be $112, $115 or even $120.

It seems to me this bridge is on very shaky foundations when the consumer cannot be told the truth without the risk of bringing it down. Perhaps the Chamber might try to undergird this bridge by advocating sufficient cash to make it trustworthy to both producer and consumer.

Faith Barriers

What you rightly call "the barrier of faith" is probably the greatest divisive force with which we have to contend. When Shelley wrote, "Life, like a dome of many-colored glass, stains the white radiance of Eternity," he may well have been influenced by Newton's demonstration of the complexity of white light. Unless I am greatly mistaken, Shelley (at that time) conceived of Truth as the white light which is split into its component parts by the prism of finite mind.

We should, I think, assume if Shelley's right That Truth is like prismatic rays of light Which, spinning ever at Creation's speed Are God's sole garment; are His robe of white.

Yippee! Yippee! Jo Ann Is Free

OXNARD, Calif. — Jo Ann Smith's car is no honeymoon vehicle even though it is festooned with balloons, flowers and tin cans. Signs on it read: "Just divorced!" "Yippee, I'm free—my baby and me." "Hot dog, I'm free." Mrs. Smith, in her early 20's and mother of a 16-month-old girl, was granted a final decree from her husband, Ron.

SEATTLE — George Pierre, 38, chief of the Colville Federated Indian tribes, was declared winner by an unofficial count of absentee ballots, over his Republican opponent Robert E. Harty by 267 votes. Pierre will be the first Indian Chief to sit in Washington State's House of Representatives.

LONDON — Sir Richard Hull, 57, has been named Chief of the British Defence Staff to replace Admiral Lord Mountbatten. He takes over the job July 16 with the rank of Field Marshal.

DENVER, Colo. — Mrs. Lacy Ibbotson, 36, delivered her ninth child, a 6½-pound boy, with the aid of a textbook. She was checked by doctors at Colorado General Hospital and congratulated by the physicians for her excellent handling of the birth. All her other children were born in hospital under normal circumstances.

JOHANNESBURG — Miss South Africa, 23-year-old Veda Karsan, a candidate in the Miss World beauty contest in London, faces arrest on her return home because she failed to show up in court on a parking summons.

TORONTO — Nineteen-year-old Mrs. Marge Crawford, whose husband, Thomas, 22, is in a mental home, leaving her on welfare, has been ordered out of the $10,000,000 Moss Park public housing complex. She owes $20 of her November rent of $20. She has been told twice she had 48 hours to raise the $20 or she and her four-month-old baby, Jody, would be evicted and her furniture seized.

LONDON — President Johnson has told Soviet President Khrushchev and Premier Kossygin he hopes they can take further steps in the direction of "true peace" and said he intends to take every effort to this end himself. He was replying to their cable congratulating him on his election.

TUKWILLA, Wash. — Cattle rustlers added insult to injury when they stole Vincent Scarcella's seven steers. They made him load the animals after they had ambushed him with a shotgun.

OTTAWA — Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman of Winnipeg says he plans to hold public hearings at Winnipeg, Nakina, Ont., and Wainwright, Alta., in his one-man commission study of the CNR's controversial run-through program.

VANCOUVER — Police Chief Ralph Booth says crime in Vancouver is getting out of hand and police have reached the limit of their resources. "There has been a very big increase in criminal activity and I am considering the need to increase the size of the force to cope with the situation," he said.

SYDNEY, Australia — Australian customs officials "disarmed" Lorne Greene, star of the U.S. television western Bonanza, when he arrived at Sydney Airport. Ottawa-born Greene, here for a series of guest appearances, was wearing a Colt .44 revolver in an elaborate holster when he arrived from the U.S. but regulations forbid the import of firearms into Australia, and he had to hand in his gun.

HALIFAX — Nova Scotia's Liberal Association may receive the long-rumored resignation of provincial party leader Earl W. Urquhart at its annual meeting today. Urquhart, who lost his legislative seat in the Nova Scotia elections last year, will make a statement on his "future as party leader."

HONG KONG — Britain's Leyland Motors is negotiating in Peking to sell the Chinese Communists the same type of buses Leyland has sold to Cuba, according to Donald Stokes, Leyland's managing director.

FORT SILL, Okla. — Student No. 13 was named honor graduate Friday, the 13th, of vehicle maintenance course No. 13 at Fort Sill. Graduation ceremonies were at 1300 hours. The honor grad was M. Sgt. Charles Willey of Limestone, Me. He's a radio mechanic, a job the army classifies as MOS 313. Willey has been in the army 13 years.

HOLLYWOOD — The December-May marriage of Wagner tenor Lauritz Melchior and his former secretary, Mary Markham, appears headed for the divorce court. The 74-year-old singer and his 40-

Prison Calls Tenders

Tenders have been called for construction of a dormitory building at William Head minimum security prison.

"This is the first stage of a development to set up an institutional type of accommodation," said Gamaliel Milner, recently-appointed superintendent. "We have used the quarantine buildings up to now."

QUARANTINE STATION — William Head for years was the quarantine station for the department of health and welfare to handle deep-sea ships entering the country. It had a fumigation plant, hospital and cemetery.

For five years it has been used in its present role. Supt. Milner said the inmates are now building a dining room and kitchen.

TRAINING SCHOOL — "This is being built in conjunction with our trades training school," he said. "We expect it will be finished early in the new year. Our next problem is providing recreational, educational and vocational shops for the men."

When the new dormitory is built the prison will be able to accommodate 175 men instead of 140 as at present.

Tree Tenders Called For Airport

Tenders have been called by the department of transport for tapping and removal of trees and re-planting of power lines at Patricia Bay airport.

Work to be done will bring flightways up to present-day standards laid down by the International Civil Aviation Organization.

City Doctor Honored By Academy

A Victoria physician, Dr. Peter Hansford, 1175 Cook, was among 313 pediatricians recently elected to fellowship in the American Academy of Pediatrics.

To qualify as a Fellow of the Academy, a pediatrician must be a citizen of one of the countries of the Americas; have a minimum of five years of specialized study in pediatrics, and show activity in teaching, investigative work, clinical studies, and public or governmental affairs.

A Calgary physician was the only other Canadian doctor elected to the Academy.

Boy Runs Into Car

Kenneth Chow, 5, of 2516 Wark, was in satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital last night after he broke away from his grandfather and sprinted into the path of a car on Fisgard near Government Street Tuesday.

Four Vacancies

Five Seeking Council Seats

The three Victoria aldermen whose terms expire this year announced Friday that they will all be seeking re-election Dec. 12.

In addition, two more candidates will be seeking one of four aldermanic vacancies. One, Mrs. Evelyn MacKenzie, was an unsuccessful candidate last year. The other, realtor W. J. Dickie, is making his first bid for office.

The three whose terms expire are Aldermen A. W. Toome, C. M. Parrott and A. I. Curtis.

SUDDEN DEATH

A fourth council vacancy was caused by the death this year of Ald. Arthur Dowell, who was senior alderman on city council.

With election day about a month away there is little indication that the contest will be stormy. In fact, say observers, it is shaping up as a quiet one.

It will be the first year the city has departed from its traditional Thursday election, and it does so because of a change in legislation by the provincial government.

CITY CLERK

Nominations will be accepted Nov. 30 at the office of the city clerk, Frank Hunter, in city hall, from 10 a.m. until noon.

Victoria will hold its first advance poll this year in the city clerk's office in the legislative wing of city hall between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Dec. 9, 10 and 11.

Those who take advantage of the poll will be required to sign a declaration that they will be out of the city on election day.

Art Lecture Set Monday

A public lecture on Masters and Masterpieces will be given by Prof. Tony Emery at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, at 8:30 p.m. Monday.

Prof. Emery set out on a Canada Council fellowship in 1963 to study the great art museums of Europe. His illustrated talk will be about leading masterpieces in the museums and galleries of London, Paris, Copenhagen and other European capitals.

Saanich Police Drop Drug Robbery Charge

A charge of robbery with violence against Theodore E. Stephens, of the YMCA, was dropped by Saanich police in Saanich magistrate's court Friday.

Kenneth Jay, who was charged jointly with Stephens at a previous court appearance, entered a plea of guilty. He is to be sentenced Monday. Both men were charged after retired city coroner Dr. John H. Moore, 2941 Sea View Drive, told police he caught a man removing a medical bag from his car.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

A week or so ago, when we were discussing the fall care of the lawn and the necessity of getting all the fallen leaves raked up, I did a spot of ranting about the criminal waste of precious soil-building humus when these autumn leaves are consumed in bonfires. It is true that the ashes contain useful amounts of potash, but most of the goodness goes up in smoke in the form of volatile gases.

In any case, it isn't so much the plant food in the leaves and garden wastes that is needed, for nutrients can be supplied cheaply and much more conveniently in the form of chemical fertilizer. It is the sheer bulkiness of the leaves and rubbish that is so valuable in converting rather poor garden soil into mellow and fertile loam.

If you have a bit of unused space in an out-of-the-way corner of your garden, it is a simple matter to start a compost heap. Put down an 18-inch layer of leaves, then trample them down. Make it on bare ground so earthworms and soil bacteria can enter the heap and get in their licks, and don't make the compost heap too small. A fair-sized mass is needed to generate enough warmth for proper fermentation, for the heap has to "work" like wine or rising bread dough. About six feet by four is the practicable minimum.

If the leaves are very dry, wet them down with the hose or watering can, then sprinkle a little fertilizer over the damp material. It doesn't matter what kind of fertilizer you use—if you have some left over from feeding the lawn, it will serve admirably.

Follow this up with another sprinkle, this time a one-inch layer of good topsoil from the most fertile part of the garden. The idea here is to inoculate your compost heap with the most beneficial soil bacteria, and the best strains will be found in that portion of the garden where plants grow really well.

The first layer is now complete, and all that remains is to repeat the process—trampled leaves and garden trash, water, fertilizer, soil—over and over again, building up your heap until it is four or five feet high, or until you run out of materials. Build it with slightly sloping sides, a bit narrower on top, and finish off by punching a few holes in the heap from top to bottom with a crowbar or rake handle; this is to admit air to the lower layers.

Fermentation will start almost right away, generating heat in the process, and it is quite a common thing to see steam rising from it in cold weather. Eventually, winter cold will penetrate the heap, and fermentation will stop during frosty periods, resuming again as the weather warms up.

Next year, after the bulk of the spring work is out of the way and you have a little spare time on your hands, it is a good idea to take your compost heap apart and remake it, turning it top to bottom and sides to middle, wetting it down again if necessary, so all the material rots down evenly. By next fall, you'll have a supply of flaky brown compost with a lovely earthy smell to it, fairly brimming with fertility. A handful of this stuff placed in the bottom of a planting hole when setting out plants makes for brimming health and vigorous growth.

Making compost is something like making homemade wine—there is a simple, basic way, such as I have described, but there are also all kinds of refinements and variations to make better compost, more compost, or to make it faster. Some of these refinements will be discussed in my next column.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Christmas Carroll Bares All

NEW YORK (NANA)—The Christmas number of that very girly-girly magazine, will have five pages of Carroll Baker wearing nothing but a smile.

Shirley MacLaine could not appear at the sneak preview of her John Goldfarb, Please Come Home picture in New York, because she was still in Iran. Which prompts the question, where is Robert Mitchum? When last seen, Robert was in Tokyo with Shirley and her husband Steve Parker. The Shirley-Mitchum friendship is not only one of the loveliest I ever remember, but one of the longest lasting. Why, some Hollywood marriages don't last as long... Parker was in New York for his picture.

Julie Andrews adores the idea of taking over the role in Hawaii that was originally planned for Audrey Hepburn. It's a sort of movie musical chair with these two charmers. It wouldn't surprise me if they both win the Oscar — Audrey for My Fair Lady, Julie for Mary Poppins. In the very earliest days of the awards, there was I believe, a tie for first place.

Can Elizabeth Taylor be really serious about her future billing as "Elizabeth Burton"? I believe she is. In private life stars very often use their married surnames. I've heard Rosalind Russell introduce herself as Rosalind Brinson. And Carroll Baker always calls herself Mrs. Jack Garfield away from the cameras. Actually, Miss Taylor doesn't need a last name. She could be billed simply as "Elizabeth."

David Niven had an idea of flying to Switzerland to tape a two-hour interview with Charlie Chaplin for his Open End television show. It would be interesting.

Arlene Dahl and ex-mate but one, Fernando Lamas, seem to have a lot to say when they talk long distance, and short distance. Which makes me wonder if Fernando's long friendship with Esther Williams—they never did get around to marrying—is over, or about to be. Fernando was Arlene's middle husband—first was Lex Barker. Last, Chris Holmes.

The Mudgillian for which Bea Little paid $7,000, and kept in the cellar because she didn't like it, has been appraised by Sotheby's of London at $150,000. It is no longer in her cellar.

Greta Garbo is seeing more people since her close friend, George Schelen, passed away.

Pretty Dawn Addams is taking "flying lessons" for her Peter Pan engagement at the Scala in London, for the Christmas holidays.

I find it hard to believe that Richard Burton and Liz Taylor will seek to have Eddie Fisher's adoption of the little German girl, Maria, set aside so that Richard can be her legal daddy. Although with Eddie unable to see the little girl, much as he would like to, and Richard absolutely devoted to her and she to him, it does make some sort of sense.

What's all this about Marlene Dietrich acting as peacekeeper between her daughter Maria and son-in-law Bill Biva? I didn't know they were having any trouble... Ethel Merman, among other friends of the late Cole Porter, is championing a series of scholarships in his name for striving songwriters who need financial help.

Dino de Laurentiis plans to release his picture with Noraya and Richard Harris, by Christmas—according to Mr. Harris. But that is being optimistic. Christmas is only a few weeks away. And while Richard has finished his segment in the picture, there are two more with two other leading men.

British playwright Wolf Mankowitz is writing a musical version of Mata Hari, and he is after Melina Mercouri to play the famed and sex-loaded spy of the First World War.

ART BUCHWALD Has Lunch With a Computer

Now for the Yankees!

The triumph of the computer in the 1964 U.S. elections was a frightening thing to see. Although only two per cent of the country had voted, the computers were eager to declare a winner at 7 o'clock at night.

The two key words in the campaign were projection and analysis. Having had such a success, the computers are hard to live with.

We had lunch with one the other day. Its lights were twinkling and it had a big grin on its panel board.

"I'll bet you're glad the elections are over."

It whirled contentedly. "The issue was never in doubt," we read on the tape.

"What gave you the biggest scare?"

"An 80-year-old lady in Idaho tied to us, and on the basis of it I projected a landslide for Goldwater. But fortunately I caught it before we went on the air."

"How did you feel about being on television?"

"You got used to it. Frankly, I thought Cronkite was on camera too much. After all, I was doing all the work and he was taking the bows. I think he could have thrown the ball to me a little more often."

"Didn't you predict Robert Taft would be a winner in Ohio?"

"I predicted 789 races correctly and all everyone remembers is I made a mistake in Ohio. It really hurts. You know, computers have feelings, too."

"I'm sorry. I didn't mean to point out an error."

"You know what happened in Ohio? Cleveland. That's what happened in Ohio. More people voted in Cleveland than should have, but nobody tells me anything."

"Please don't get excited. You did a wonderful job."

The computer calmed down.

"I'm sorry, but I've had a nerve-wracking time. There have been so many things to remember, a many figures to digest, and so much pressure from the network, I guess I'm a little tired."

"What are your plans for the next four years?"

"CBS has me figuring out what to do with the New York Yankees. Now that I got Yogi Berra fired, I've got to start analyzing the team from scratch."

Hernia Fells Cassius Clay; Fight Off for Several Months

BOSTON (AP)—Heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay underwent a successful operation for a hernia Friday night in City Hospital, where he had been taken by ambulance from his hotel.

The announcement came from the surgeon, Dr. William McDermott of Harvard. The operation took approximately one hour.

The title fight scheduled Monday between Clay and challenger Sonny Liston had been postponed indefinitely earlier in the evening.

Dr. McDermott said Clay can resume "fairly normal physical activity in about a month."

Asked about heavy training, Dr. McDermott said:

"We usually would have him lay off about three months from any heavy labor."

Dr. McDermott called it an "easy" operation.

He added Clay's trouble was an incarcerated groin hernia with a congenital defect in the abdominal wall.

A hernia is the term applied when an organ or part of it protrudes through a connective tissue or through a wall of the cavity in which it is normally enclosed. The hernia is considered "incarcerated" when the protruding part is so large as not to be able to be pushed back through the opening.

Dr. McDermott said one of the nurses told Cassius:

"You're the greatest, aren't you?"

"Not tonight," came the reply.

Dr. McDermott said Clay would remain hospitalized for about a week and then he would have three additional weeks of convalescence.

NOT DANGEROUS

Asked what would have happened if Clay had not come to the hospital immediately and would it have been dangerous, Dr. McDermott said:

"It could have gone on for several hours. It wasn't that dangerous."

Dr. Nathan Shapiro, physician for the Massachusetts Boxing Commission, said earlier that there had been no sign of the hernia when he examined the heavyweight champion Monday.

EATS—THEN SICK

Dr. Shapiro said he understood that Clay became sick after having his dinner about 6:30 p.m.

Clay was eating with Drew Brown, his friend and assistant trainer, in their hotel room.

Brown said:

"We were eating and watching television. Cassius had steak, potatoes, spinach and tossed salad."

BAD PAIN

"Just after he finished eating he got violently sick and started to throw up. His stomach swelled up the size of a football."

Clay said:

"Get me to a hospital quick. I'm in bad pain."

SONNY SPEAKS

Liston, reached by phone at his Plymouth training camp, said:

"If he wouldn't be running around the streets the way he does, he wouldn't have anything wrong with him."

Liston's comment apparently was a reference to Clay's conduct Monday when he ran up and down Commonwealth Avenue stopping trolley cars and trucks and inquiring for the "Big Bear"—his name for Liston.

Lions arrived by chartered plane Friday afternoon and a special bus carried them directly from the airport to the playing field. They went through a light calisthenic workout in sweat suits, and footwear varied from running shoes to cleats.

MORRIS FREED

Defensive halfback Steve Shaffer, who has not played since a knee operation Oct. 1, will replace Holland on offense, thus freeing Ron Morris for a return to his regular position as an offensive halfback.

The weather forecast is for possible snow showers by game time this afternoon, with temperatures around the 15-degree mark.

Club president George McMahon called a special meeting to break the news, hoping to bring the club to its peak morale and dispel coast to coast rumors that Dobbs' head was on the block.

There had been persistent reports the Calgary coach had to win the Western championship this season or be cut adrift.

McMahon said the club executive had not considered such action and no such move is contemplated in the immediate future.

The eastern final may be seen over Channel 8 at 10 a.m. with the western game over Channels 3 and 8 at 1 p.m., according to the networks involved.

Army Pulls Upset

Last night was billed as Pontiacs Night in the Esquimalt Hockey League. It was all of that—only Army made certain that they shared the major glory.

The Army team, winless in its first four outings, upset Pontiacs, 4-1.

The other game saw University Vikings extend their first-place margin to four points by defeating Navy, 7-5.

The Soldiers, who hadn't exactly scared anybody up to this point, started fast last night, outscoring Pontiacs, 4-1, in the first period.

Loose checking by Pontiacs made it possible for the Army skaters to get untracked and they matched goals with the more-experienced club the rest of the way.

Vikings saved their power for the last period, outscoring the Sailors, 4-2, to salt away the victory.

Leads Seals

Speedy Charlie Burns, who played one full season with Detroit Red Wings and four with Boston Bruins before being sent to San Francisco last season, will need particular attention from Victoria Maple Leafs this evening at Memorial Arena. Burns leads his club with six goals and nine assists. Game time is 8:30.

Flu Bug Infests B.C. Lions' Den

CALGARY—All was not well in the Lions' den last night, the eve of the first game of the Western Conference football final.

Three B.C. Lions were suffering the effects of a 24-hour flu. By Bailey, Paul Seale and Greg Findlay all were under the weather but late last night it was felt that Bailey is the only one who may not play the entire game.

Coach Dave Skrien said that his key worry was that the flu might spread to the other players overnight.

"Such a thing could rip our club apart. The doctors say there is nothing we can do but hope. You can't isolate the players or give them a pill that provides protection."

Calgary called its first off-the-field psychological move by announcing the directors had given coach Bobby Dobbs a vote of confidence.

The eastern final may be seen over Channel 8 at 10 a.m. with the western game over Channels 3 and 8 at 1 p.m., according to the networks involved.

Club president George McMahon called a special meeting to break the news, hoping to bring the club to its peak morale and dispel coast to coast rumors that Dobbs' head was on the block.

There had been persistent reports the Calgary coach had to win the Western championship this season or be cut adrift.

McMahon said the club executive had not considered such action and no such move is contemplated in the immediate future.

Club president George McMahon called a special meeting to break the news, hoping to bring the club to its peak morale and dispel coast to coast rumors that Dobbs' head was on the block.

There had been persistent reports the Calgary coach had to win the Western championship this season or be cut adrift.

The eastern final may be seen over Channel 8 at 10 a.m. with the western game over Channels 3 and 8 at 1 p.m., according to the networks involved.

Clay arrived by chartered plane Friday afternoon and a special bus carried them directly from the airport to the playing field. They went through a light calisthenic workout in sweat suits, and footwear varied from running shoes to cleats.

MORRIS FREED

Defensive halfback Steve Shaffer, who has not played since a knee operation Oct. 1, will replace Holland on offense, thus freeing Ron Morris for a return to his regular position as an offensive halfback.

The weather forecast is for possible snow showers by game time this afternoon, with temperatures around the 15-degree mark.

Injury List May Hurt Habs, Leafs

By the Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens are limping while Detroit Red Wings are running scared as the National Hockey League heads into a five-game schedule today.

The Leafs and Canadiens, tied for second place two points back of the leading Red Wings, are drawing nearer the high-flying Detroit club but injuries have taken their toll and may spell the difference.

INJURY LIST

The injury list for Habs and Leafs reads almost like an all-star team and includes all three regular goalies for the two clubs.

In addition, Henri Richard and Jacques Laperriere of Montreal and Frank Mahovlich, Dave Keon and possibly Don McKenney and Carl Brewer of the Leafs will sit out this weekend.

GOALIES TOO

As for the goalies, Johnny Bower has influenza and Terry Sawchuk strained his muscles. Montreal backup Charlie Hodge is still nursing a sore back and it is likely that Gump Worsley will again see action as he did in Wednesday's game against Chicago Black Hawks.

Leafs will call on Jerry Cheevers from Rochester of the American Hockey League if neither Sawchuk or Bower are ready.

Leafs play Boston in Toronto Saturday while Canadiens tangle with Detroit in Montreal in the weekend's big game. On Sunday, Montreal goes to Boston. Toronto will play Black Hawks in Chicago and Detroit will move into Madison Square Garden for a game against the New York Rangers.

Mahovlich went into hospital in Toronto Thursday for a complete examination after complaining for several weeks of constantly being tired. Maple Leaf Gardens President Stafford Smythe says he fears the Big M may be suffering from mononucleosis, a blood disease which sidelined Sawchuk for six months in 1957.

As for the Canadiens Richard is still bothered by a groin injury and probably won't see action for several weeks. Laperriere's knee was injured when he was knocked down by Chicago's Phil Esposito Wednesday night. Physiotherapist Bill Head thinks the defenseman may have to undergo surgery for torn cartilage, but won't make that decision for another day at least.

Scoring Declines In National League

Fears of National Hockey League officials that defence has caught up with offence are reflected in individual scoring figures.

Stan Mikita and Bobby Hull, the one-two punch of the Chicago Black Hawks got away to a fast start and follows like Claude Provost of Montreal Canadiens, Frank Mahovlich and Andy Bathgate of Toronto Maple Leafs, Norm Ullman of Detroit Red Wings and Camille Henry of New York Rangers have been getting their points consistently. But that's about the lot.

NHL officials believe that six goals a game is an ideal average but the trend is towards less scoring. The average last season was about 5.5 goals a game. This season it is below five goals, and

AAU Sticks Together

B.C.'s Proposal Shot Down

MONTREAL (CP) — A proposal by the British Columbia branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada to permit autonomous operation of the AAU's sports entities got nowhere at the AAU annual meeting Friday.

The resolution, moved by Dr. H. D. Whittle, president of the B.C. Gymnastics Association, asked that any national sport committee of the AAU be permitted to withdraw and apply for membership as an affiliated association.

IN COMMITTEE

The resolution failed first in the legislation committee when there was no second to the motion. A non-concurrence motion then was passed, and at a subsequent general meeting the subject was not even discussed.

A morning general meeting accepted without argument all recommendations and resolutions of the track and field committee. Most of these were minor or explanatory, but one resolution that previously had run into trouble at a committee meeting sailed through the general meeting without discussion.

SEPARATE MEATS

It provides that one-mile or 1,500-metre heats at national championships be run on the first day of the meet, and the final on the second day.

The general meeting also approved a report to the track and field committee by Dr. Douglas S. Clement of Vancouver regarding medical examinations.

His report called for a standardized medical examination form for AAU track and field athletes. It also said this form should be "encouraged and distributed at the time of registration on a voluntary basis."

BE RETURNED

It specified also that the form be returned to the athlete's coach for co-ordination with the training program.

With minor changes, the legislation committee approved a resolution from the Alberta branch providing that national committees of the various sports may act toward suspending athletes whose conduct is unbecoming to sport.

The same committee referred to the registration committee a track-and-field suggestion that a waiver of responsibility, particularly by parents or guardians of competitors under 21 years of age, accompany registration cards instead of being supplied each time on entry forms for meets.

The general meeting approved a report of the National Officials' Registration Plan. It provides for organization and administration of correspondence courses and other means, including examinations and tests, for upgrading of track and field officials of the national level.

The Junior Olympics program was also approved. It provides for co-operation with authorities for parks, recreation areas, schools and such bodies toward development of athletes.

At an earlier committee meeting, it was stated that the B.C., Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario branches had already agreed to give the program a tryout in 1964-65 and it was tented across the country as part of Canada's centennial celebration co-operating by 1966 and that time.

Federal Plan Set for 1967

MONTREAL (CP) — Major Arnold Charbonneau of Ottawa, sports co-ordinator for the federal government's committee planning sports for Canada's centenary, told a general meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada Friday of long-range plans for sports presentations in 1967.

They are aimed at the same time toward physical development of Canada's youth.

He said there are three stages:

1. Organization on a national scale of events for youngsters six to 18 years old that will provide mass participation;

2. Development of special events;

3. Staging of major international competitions in Canada for the first time.

In the first stage, it was hoped that 6,000,000 school children would play a large part with special centennial awards and medals.

The special-events stage could include such competitions as highland games, particularly in Eastern Canada, physical fitness events and even fishing and log-rolling.

Latest Hope Looks Promising

Britain Holds Boxing Breath for Billy

By LONEL LINDGREN LONDON (CP)—British boxing fans have watched their heavyweight hopes crash to the canvas with such sickening regularity that they don't know whether to wince or root for blond Billy Walker.

Walker is a long way from a world title fight. But he's only 25, has a punch like a sledgehammer and figures he can afford to wait.

Right now Billy is riding high as the chief contender for Henry Cooper's British and Empire crown.

He moved into the challenging slot after bulldozing his way to a points victory over 30-year-old Joe Erskine in a fight that didn't follow the pattern sports writers had laid down for it.

The experts predicted Walker would either knock out Erskine with sheer brute strength in the opening rounds or succumb to his opponent's skill and experience if the fight went the distance.

As it turned out, Walker proved that he has picked up a fair bit of science to add to his boxing brawn. He won the fight in the last two rounds with a display of stamina that left Erskine breathless and beat.

It was only the second time that Erskine had been out-pointed in 33 professional bouts.

When he isn't punching opponents, Walker pumps gasoline at one of the two service stations he owns with his brother in London's suburban West Ham. Eventually they hope to extend the stations into a chain.

Expansion should be easy with the money the six-foot, 196-pound boxer has been making since he turned professional two years ago. Figures aren't official but the estimates are he has carried away more than $35,000 from his 17 pro fights.

Before that Walker was one of Britain's star amateurs, winning 26 of his 33 bouts. It was as an amateur that he hit the headlines in 1962 with a lightning left hook to the jaw of American Cornel Parry. Walker came in like a lion and Parry went out like a light.

Since then British fans have been daring to hope that the blond bomber might, just might become Britain's first world heavyweight champion of this century.

But before the world comes the Empire. Walker won't be able to climb into a ring with Cooper until next summer at least.

In the meantime he wants to keep in trim by fighting another experienced top ranker. His manager now is trying to arrange a match with one of the American heavyweight contenders.

And Walker remains undaunted by the long line of prone British predecessors. He says:

"This win against Erskine has proved to me that I can reach the top before very much longer."

Parents, Lawyer Tackle Draft In Manitoba Junior Hockey

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Winnipeg lawyer said recently he had been hired by the parents of two teenagers to work for the boys' release from two Winnipeg junior hockey clubs, who tied them up under a draft system.

Lawyer Bruce Forrester told The Canadian Press Bill Fraser, 17 and George Fergie, 16, had been denied permission by the clubs to play for Flin Flon in the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League.

BOTH DRAFTED

The players are graduates of the Greater Winnipeg Minor Hockey Association and had been drafted by two Manitoba junior hockey league clubs which have agreements with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

All four clubs in the MJHL are from Winnipeg. The Braves have Fergie and the Monarchs have Fraser. Boston also has an agreement with a third club in the loop and New York the fourth.

PARENTS APPEAL

Parents of both players appealed to the Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association recently to allow the transfer to Flin Flon, but the registration committee denied the request.

Mr. Forrester said he had written to association president R. B. Alexander challenging the decision on the grounds that a committee member was Bill Addison, manager of the Braves, who has a personal interest in the case. Forrester said he is also exploring the possibility of other legal action.

He said no decision had been made whether to test the validity of the system that allows Manitoba junior clubs to draft players from the minor hockey association here.

Under the system, sanctioned by the Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association, the junior clubs can place a restricted number of top minor players on a protected list without the players' consent.

WINGS HELPED

Fraser and Fergie decided this year to play for Flin Flon and a Detroit scout in Winnipeg. Joe Mendella, said he was instrumental in sending them up to the northern Manitoba mining town. Detroit has a verbal working agreement with Flin Flon.

Alexander said: "I sympathize with the parents, but we have rules by which we must abide."

The agreement between the Greater Winnipeg Minor Hockey Association and the provincial body that allows junior clubs here first call on players is in the MAHA constitution.

"Further it is also in the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association constitution which, in turn, is agreed upon by the National Hockey League," he said.

Parents of both boys involved lodged protests against the system in letters published recently in the Winnipeg Free Press.

Fergie's letter said: "This all started, believe it or not, when my 10-year-old son signed his first pink slip to play organized hockey."

"If he hadn't signed he would have been denied the right to play in team organization."

Why should you try Gold Keg Beer?

Curiosity, because it is so very different.

Labatt's Gold Keg is a bolder, darker colour because it's made with a specially roasted malt. And Gold Keg has a unique flavour that comes both from the malt and a single costly strain of European hops.

These are the things that make Gold Keg so different. And they make people like you want to try their first bottle. After that, it's up to you.

Try a Gold Keg soon...the different beer you can't be indifferent to.

Charter to Give Christmas Shares

By HARRY YOUNG Colonist Business Editor

An unexpected Christmas gift is in store for shareholders of Charter Oil Company. They will receive one share of Peso Silver Mines Ltd. for each 10 shares they hold of Charter Oil.

The stock dividend, announced by Charter directors will be paid December 17 to holders of record December 4.

Peso Silver shares sell on Vancouver Stock Exchange around $2 each so that the dividend will have a cash equivalent of about 20 cents.

Paul O. Berlitz, president of Charter Oil is also chairman of Peso Silver, and after the distribution of 239,785 Peso shares is made, Charter will continue to hold about 1,800,000 shares of Peso which has extensive mining prospects in the Yukon territory.

LAST BONDS OF 1964

The final Government of Canada financing of the year is to be announced Monday when $475,000,000 of issues in two maturities—one year and 6½ years—will be offered to the public.

The Bank of Canada has undertaken to purchase $125,000,000 of the issue.

The funds are required to refinance the $240,000,000 four per cent bonds due Dec. 1, and the $2,250,000, 3½ per cent bonds issued in 1962 which mature Dec. 15, and also to clear up the remnants of a Canadian National Railways 5½ per cent issue maturing next month.

The finance minister will announce terms of the sale Monday.

MURKY STILL IN DARK

Husky Oil shares moved all over the board — $10.50 to $12.50 — Friday as investors tried to pin down various rumors in connection with the company.

Most persistent rumor, and one emanating from New York Stock Exchange was that Shell Oil had made or was about to make an offer of $12.75 for Husky stock.

Glenn E. Nielson, Husky president, said no offer had come his way.

Another rumor was that Husky had made a major gas strike in Tunisia, but Mr. Nielson again put a damper on it by saying that while Husky has contacted gas at 5,700 feet, it was too early to jump to conclusions.

In the market places the betting is that Shell is still deeply interested in a Husky take-over.

Thirty-one of the 52 Vancouver Island groups participating in the purchase of Canada Savings bonds by payroll deduction bought more bonds than a year ago and the Vancouver Island total reached a record $2,046,900.

Bill Munro, Victoria investment man who organized the Vancouver Island campaign, said this year's figure was 13 per cent above that of 1963.

Halloween Hooliganism Lands Youth in Jail

Halloween hooliganism that included punching a youth, smashing a plate glass window and shouting obscenities was described in city magistrate's court Friday.

John MacDonald, 18, of 400 Craigflower, pleaded guilty, before Magistrate J. A. Byers, of wilful damage, assault causing bodily harm, creating a disturbance and using obscene language in public.

Police said MacDonald and two other youths had been reported to them by citizens for rowdiness.

MacDonald, they said, had been seen to throw a beer bottle through a $127 plate glass window at 414 Craigflower. He also drew a small

Emery Fills Podium For Absent Diplomat

By JUDITH BAINES

Members of the University of Victoria political science forum were entertained by Professor Tony Emery at noon Friday, although they came expecting to hear the Cuban ambassador to Canada.

His Excellency Amerigo Cruz, who was scheduled to address the forum, sent a telegram late Thursday saying he would be unable to appear because he was "urgently required back in Ottawa."

Professor Emery filled the gap, giving a humorous description of his recent European tour. In answer to a student question about the British election, Mr. Emery said Prime Minister Wilson was "clever and unscrupulous."

"He must be given a chance to make a mess of it," he commented. "What's the good of a two-party system if the other party doesn't get a chance to have a go at it once in a while."

The aggressive drivers of Germany terrified him. "They have no skill whatsoever," he said.

Court Gives Arsonist Suspended Sentence

Robert Allan Rathsburg, 38, of 2150 Cadboro Bay Road, was given a two-year suspended sentence for arson when he appeared in County Court Friday.

Rathsburg had earlier pleaded guilty to setting fire to premises he had rented in the upstairs portion of the building at 1117 Blanshard. A condition of his suspended sentence was that he make restitution for damages caused by the fire to the owners of the building.

He was also required to sign a $1,000 recognizance to keep the peace during his suspended sentence.

Seeks Seat

Longtime political buff Mrs. Nora Lindsay will contest Dec. 12 municipal election for seat on District 63 Saanich school board. Forty-six-year-old mother of two who has lived in Saanich since 1938 is campaigning on program of slashed building costs, "realistic" planning for future school needs in district and improvement in "inadequate and inconvenient" school transportation in area. — (Robin Clarke)

B.C. Law Faces Ruling

The Supreme Court of Canada will be asked to rule on validity of B.C. legislation passed last March to extend Supreme Court powers to County Court judges.

These powers include handling of divorce cases and the government action was designed to speed up disposal of a backlog of divorce cases before the Supreme Court. The B.C. Appeal Court ruled this week the provincial legislation was invalid.

Animal Lab Ready Soon

A new animal pathology laboratory at Abbotsford will be completed by the end of the month, Agriculture Minister Frank Richter said Friday.

The government is doubling its present staff of three pathologists preparatory to the move from quarters in University of British Columbia. The new lab will concentrate on fur-bearing animals such as chinchilla and mink.

Beermanship is the art of learning inside-information about beer.

Let's revive the grand art of pouring beer.

Beermanship had its real beginnings 50 years ago.

In those days a man's pouring technique was as important as his fishing technique. A good beer-pourer could gather a crowd almost anywhere he went.

Nowadays many men are too busy to give their beer the attention it deserves.

Well, this modern age has robbed us of too many good old things. It's time we fought back. It's time we revived pouring as a prideful thing.

Take a tip from our brew-master. Pour your beer boldly into the centre of the glass, so that it gets a good head. This releases the bouquet. Doubles your enjoyment.

Try it with Molson Canadian — the light beer that's all beer

Religion-Labor Speaker Discusses Faith, Industry

Rev. David F. Summers, executive director, Religion-Labor Council of Canada, will speak at 11 a.m. in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and at 7:30 p.m. at First United on The Christian Faith and Industry.

Following the evening service at First United Mr. Summers will be guest in the youth room located below the chapel for an interdenominational city-wide rally of youth.

Mr. Summers is one of three guest speakers at the First United tomorrow. With him in the evening service will be Rev. Harold T. Allen, together with two young people, Pam Heycock and Doug Honeysett. At the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services the guest speaker will be Keith Jamieson, civil engineer and missionary on furlough from Angola, Africa, who will preach on The Key Generation.

Sharing in the conduct of the service at 9:30 a.m. will be Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Ash, and at 11 a.m., Mr. J. Walter Braithwaite.

An annual week of prayer of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, Pandora and Vancouver Streets, will be climaxed at the 11 a.m. service today with a reading Onward Unitedly prepared by the world leader, R. R. Fiehr. The choir will sing the anthem O Shepherd Divine.

Conversion: Man's Partnership with God will be Rev. Alvin C. Hamill's message at the 7:30 p.m. service, Emmanuel Baptist. In the morning he will speak on The First Elder Son.

Former Estonian Describes Terrors

An eye-witness account of "terrors behind the Iron Curtain" will be given Sunday at the Alliance Church, 1039 Yates Street, by an evangelist who escaped from Estonia.
Rev. Endel Meiusi, who is the international secretary and the radio voice of the Estonian Evangelical Alliance, will preach at both the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services.

Mr. Meiusi promised God while behind the Iron Curtain that if he were allowed his freedom, he would spend the rest of his life telling of Jesus Christ and his saving power.
He escaped, along with 18 others, in a half-rotten boat which took them across the Baltic Sea to Sweden.

Island Stowaways in Australia

'Jail Beats Unemployment'

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Two Canadian stowaways said today they would rather stay in an Australian jail than be sent back to unemployment in Canada.

Hilaire Bernier, 26, a seaman, and Richard Bernier, 21, a bank clerk and no relation, reached Sydney Friday locked in the hospital of the Swedish freighter Mercia.

The two men, whose home towns were not reported, said they stowed away from Vancouver Island.

The Mercia's last stop during her last trip to B.C. was in Nanaimo, which she left Oct. 21 with lumber for Japan and Australia.

The men said they both had jobs, but the cost of living in Canada was too high and there was no future for them.

They were attracted to Australia by tales of the wages earned on the Snowy Mountains plan.

CABLE LOCKER

The men hid in an aft cable locker in the Mercia three weeks ago, and gave themselves up when the ship had been at sea 12 hours.

They worked as deckhands on the voyage.

"We hope the immigration department here will give us temporary papers until we can get our passports, but if they send us back we will stow away again," one of the stowaways said.

"We would like better to be in jail here than be on the street in Canada without a job," he said.

The two men were taken to an immigration detention centre. An immigration department spokesman said the department was examining the case.

Navy League President To Pay Visit

The national president of the Navy League of Canada will start a two-week visit to B.C. Sunday.

Dr. Harry Roberts of St. John's, Nfld., first easterner to become the league's national president, will be accompanied by his wife. He will make inspections in Victoria and Nanaimo during his stay.

B.C. has 34 cadet and Wrenette corps with a combined enrolment of 2,500.

Navigation Expert

Commander Tingley Rites Today

Funeral services for a man who devoted his life to navigation will be held privately at McCall's funeral chapel today.

Commander Harold Reed Tingley died on Remembrance Day in Veterans' Hospital after a two-month illness. He was 70.

The commander retired from the Royal Canadian Navy in 1947 after a career that began during the First World War with the Royal Navy.

He developed his navigational skill during his navy years and carried it over to merchant vessels after retirement.

The Nova Scotia-born navigator came to Victoria in 1928. He is survived by his wife Lillian.

Nanaimo

Arsonist Put On Probation

NANAIMO—A 13-year-old Nanaimo man pleaded guilty to an arson charge and was given a two-year suspended sentence by Magistrate Eric Finch in city magistrate's court Friday.

Stanley Gordon Stupich admitted setting fire to a pile of combustible material under a fire escape at the Nanaimo curling club rink Oct. 13.

Earlier, he had been remanded without plea for psychiatric examination and was found fit to undergo trial.

BOND POSTED

The magistrate also ordered posting of a $300 bond.

Crown prosecutor E. D. Strongthorn said no useful purpose could be gained by sending Stupich to jail.

But, at the request of both prosecution and defence, the magistrate added to the terms of probation stipulations that Stupich be placed on the Interdict list and submit to all recommended psychiatric assistance and treatment.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Magistrate Finch said, "This is a serious charge and aggressive Stupich."

'Welcome to Friends From East,' Says Page 1

By A. H. MURPHY
When the Quebec mayors arrive at city hall at 3:45 today, it will be "red carpet" treatment all the way—or rather a blue carpet decorated with yellow fleur-de-lis. The welcome will be warm and the visitors will be able to look out on Centennial Square and see the Quebec provincial flag flying alongside the Red Ensign, the Union Jack and the flag of British Columbia. The flag of Quebec will be flying in several different spots around town during the week-end. There will be one in front of city hall in addition to that in the square.

The fleur-de-lis will be seen on the Causeway, and it will be on display when the mayors go to HMCS Naden for lunch. It will be in evidence at Government House when the mayors visit the lieutenant-governor and when the province holds a dinner for the mayors on Monday night.

Instant translation equipment will be installed at city hall for the welcoming speeches.

As speeches are made they will be translated instantly by a specialist brought along from Montreal by the mayors.

The 100-odd visitors who do not speak English will be supplied with pocket receivers and ear-plugs and they will have simultaneous translation in French.

Eleven French-speaking RCN short service officer-plan cadets from HMCS Venture will serve as interpreters during the visit. The cadets, all from Quebec, will be at Patricia Bay airport for the arrival.

They are Pierre Borduas, Sherbrooke; Maurice J. Demers, St. Anne de Bellevue; Marcel Tremblay, Longueuil; Yves J. Arliot, Montreal; Real Dubois, Boucherville; Joseph Allaire, Montreal; Joseph Gagnon, Ste. Foy; Yves Trotter, St. Anne de la Perade; Pierre Allard, Hull; Claude LeClerc, Quebec City; Jacques Vallee, Quebec City.

Three Aircraft

Importance of the visit was highlighted Friday by the announcement that the federal government is contributing $15,000 toward the cost of the mayors' transportation. They will arrive in three aircraft.

It has been estimated that the visit will cost Victoria something in the neighborhood of $6,000, and that $4,000 will be spent by the provincial government on the visit.

A party of newsmen will accompany the mayors.

Sunday Mass

The program calls for the mayors to attend mass at St. Jean Baptiste church on Sunday morning, but something of a crisis arose when it was found that the church would hold not more than 150.

The mayors, when consulted by telephone, solved that problem. One hundred and fifty will attend at St. Jean Baptiste; the others will find their own way to mass.

Those of the mayors who speak only French will go to homes of French-speaking people for dinner on Sunday evening. The others will be dined and entertained in English-speaking homes all across Victoria.

Cadet Display

The group, which goes to Royal Roads for lunch on Sunday, will see a drill display by cadets before the meal.

Premier Bennett will speak Monday at a luncheon in the Empress Hotel for the visiting mayors. In the evening the provincial government will be host at a dinner for the visitors, and on Tuesday morning the premier will meet executive members of the Quebec Union of Municipalities in his office.

Complex transportation problems have arisen as the group of 271, including wives of the mayors, has been divided for different activities during the weekend. By this afternoon, however, the pattern for the weekend will be well established.

Fleur-de-Lis

The fleur-de-lis carpet in the city hall foyer was supplied by courtesy of the T. Eaton Co. Ltd.

Assistant City Clerk Morran Waller will set up an office in a room in the Empress Hotel today and will be there, with a stenographer, for the duration of the mayors' visit.

Queen's Own Hosts To Mayors

IA-Col. H. C. F. Elliott, commanding officer 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, and regimental officers will entertain Quebec mayors and their wives at a buffet luncheon in the officers' mess, West Point Barracks, at noon Sunday.

In charge of arrangements, Major Edward Hobbs, commanding officer, Esquimalt Administration Wing, bilingual in French and English, will act as interpreter for the occasion.

Managers Hear Dr. Scargill

Dr. M. H. Scargill of the University of Victoria will address the Victoria Chapter, Administrative Management Society, at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Pacific Club, on the Responsibilities of Business Management.

Blue Carpet Out for Mayors

For Defeated Candidate

Private Eye Probing For Polling Errors

By GARY OAKES

A private detective is "inquiring" into the Oct. 24 Saanich byelection at the request of defeated reeveship candidate Edward Lum.

Mr. Lum said Friday the detective is trying to find out anything possible about the 300-vote error in the Cloverdale poll.

MANY PHONING

"This will satisfy the people who have been constantly phoning me about the error," Mr. Lum explained.

Mr. Lum was presumed winner of the reeveship until discovery of the error gave the victory to Hugh Curtis.

A later recount confirmed Mr. Curtis' victory by 127 votes.

BOTH SATISFIED

At the time of the recount, conducted by Returning Officer Gordon Hayward, both Mr. Lum and Mr. Curtis expressed satisfaction with the results.

"I was satisfied," Mr. Lum said Friday, "but many people wanted an answer about the error."

OFFICER'S DUTY

"They felt it was the returning officer's duty to make an announcement about the error. He should have made a statement."

Mr. Hayward has said he felt it was a "very unfortunate and serious error but was an honest one which was quickly rectified."

ABOVE REPROACH

Main purpose of the "inquiry," Mr. Lum said, was to "make sure future Saanich elections are above reproach."

The detective is asking questions of the clerks who worked in the poll, some of whom have reported the matter to Mr. Hayward.

MUNICIPAL ACT

Mr. Hayward, who is also Saanich clerk, pointed out that if there are any complaints about the election an inquiry is provided for in the Municipal Act.

Coun. Joe Casey said he thought the recount ended the matter, adding "those people don't have to answer the detective's questions. He has no authority."

NOT LICENSED

A municipal official said the detective was not licensed by the municipality.

Mr. Lum said the cost of the detective's services are being borne partly by himself and "partly by the people who aren't satisfied with the answers they've received."

NO SACRED AID

The 36-year-old Sacred who was supported by Saanich M.I.A. John Tisdale during the election said the Social Credit party is not contributing to the cost.

Mr. Tisdale, who said he "had heard" an inquiry was underway, explained he was not connected with it.

CURTIS AWARE

Reeve Curtis said: "I have been aware of the inquiry being made by a private detective."

Mr. Lum added that a copy of the detective's report will be made available to Mr. Hayward.

"This will not lead to a full-scale judicial inquiry," he said.

Suspended Sentence

Sailor to Post $2,000 Bond

Esquimalt sailor Daniel Stanley Fletcher, 30, was given a three-year suspended sentence for indecent assault when he appeared before Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton in B.C. Assize Court Friday.

Fletcher was also required to post a $2,000 bond to keep the peace for the period of his suspended sentence.

CONTEMPTIBLE

"You did a most contemptible thing," said Mr. Justice Wootton in passing sentence.

"Your action was revolting in that you had little regard for this girl."

POOR EXAMPLE

Fletcher was convicted Thursday of indecently assaulting a 17-year-old girl in his car Aug. 18.

Said Mr. Justice Wootton: "You might be made an example of for other people who might consider detaching a young girl."

MUST BE PROTECTED

"Consider that some young man might want to consider this girl as the object of his honorable intentions."

"The females of society must be protected, particularly under these circumstances," he said.

NOT EXACT PRICE

"A man taking a woman home should not exact as the price, her virginity."

"This is what happened here," he said.

Evidence at the trial indicated Fletcher had offered the girl and two companions a ride home from work and after taking the companions home he drove to a deserted school yard where the assault occurred.

A coffee party will follow at the YWCA.

Smash Puts Two in Hospital

Two men were in Royal Jubilee Hospital early today after this car ran into rear of loaded flatbed log truck at Keating Hill on Trans-Canada Highway about 9:45 p.m. Friday. Passenger David Allen, 27, of 175 Sims, was in fair condition with possible broken jaw and head injuries, driver Cecil Beckley, 21, of 137 Michigan, in fairly good condition. Truck driver was Amrik Singh, 910 Market.—(William A. Boucher)

Capital Works

Oak Bay Will Vote On $1,250,000 Plan

Oak Bay voters will be asked to approve a $1,250,000 capital works program in the Dec. 12 municipal election.

Approval of the referendum will launch a five-year program designed to provide needed municipal improvements.

OVER 20 YEARS

Cost of the program will be spread over 20 years, housing taxes by about one-and-a-half mills, or 15 to 17 a year for the average ratepayer.

Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox who is "very much in favor" of the program, said Friday it is designed so the municipality will "catch up with needed work."

Many aspects of municipal capital works "have not kept pace with the ratepayers' needs," he said.

The program includes:

● Construction of Cedar Hill Cross Road including the portion adjacent to the university;

Reeve Cox

● Rebuilding of 15 to 20 roads;

● A considerable amount of park development;

● Extensions and outfalls to sewer mains;

● Extensions, enlargements and replacements of some water mains;

● Additional street lighting;

● Additional sidewalk construction.

FALL BEHIND

"Council is very concerned that if this work is not provided for now, we will fall even further behind to the point where instead of having a gradual expenditure to meet, we will be faced with massive expenditures all at one time, when some of the existing government grants may not be forthcoming and costs have risen," the reeve explained.

PROVIDE ASSETS

Leaving debts for future generations is not hardship, the reeve said, "as long as we leave them the assets provided by debt."

Reeve Cox pointed out the purpose of the plan, which is similar to a program approved by Victoria voters earlier this year, is two-fold.

ACCURATE BUDGET

It enables the needed work to be carried out and provides the engineering staff with an accurate budget for future years, thus improving overall planning.

Letters detailing the program will be sent to all ratepayers about two weeks prior to the election and a schedule of the proposed work will be specified in the referendum.

COULD DROP

Reeve Cox pointed out that with more construction in the municipality the mill-rate increase could drop over the years.

The reeve said that programs already underway for improvement of street lighting, resurfacing and curbing roads will continue.

WILL BE RETAINED

The local improvement system where ratepayers are charged an annual frontage will be retained only for those areas where no local improvements have ever been provided.

The reeve added that council, which unanimously approved the program, feels "it is the only solution for a pressing problem."

Library Planner Requested

DUNCAN—The Cowichan district school board has decided to ask the B.C. education department to consider the appointment of a provincial school library co-ordinator.

The request will follow another board decision, to spend $15,000 next year for the purchase of library textbooks for the Maple Bay, Somenos-Tannor, Duncan and Alexander elementary schools.

Three local teachers met the board to outline the needs of the schools under a three-year requisition: J. J. Gillatt, principal of Duncan Elementary; Gerry Watson, principal of Maple Bay Elementary, and Mrs. A. H. Harder, librarian.

Ambulance Service May End

PORT ALBERNI—The decision of Ed Miller, operator of the only ambulance service in the Alberni Valley, to cease operation may leave the Twin Cities without an ambulance service.

Mr. Miller has informed city council he is losing too much money and doesn't want a subsidy—he just wants to quit.

His announcement came while an Alberni-Port Alberni committee was investigating an earlier proposal for a subsidy.

"It's a losing proposition and I have more than $1,000 on the books which I cannot collect," Mr. Miller said Friday. "The city doesn't guarantee this amount . . . It's a straight loss that I must suffer."

Operation of an ambulance service is now up to the city or the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, he said. He suggested the ambulance be taken over by the fire department.

A motorist suffered undetermined injuries after his north-bound car went off the Trans-Canada Highway, down a bank and ended up in a yard at 1254 Goldstream.

Famed Berne Onion Market Held Since 15th Century

SWITZERLAND—On the 14th of May, 1405, a fire broke out in the heart of the city of Berne destroying 550 houses within a few hours. This was the greatest disaster Berne had suffered since its foundation in 1191. The damage to the wooden and stone houses defied description and the small community could hardly cope with the reconstruction work. An offer of aid from the people of the neighboring canton of Fribourg was gratefully accepted and in the months following the fire several sturdy helpers from the Fribourg mountains worked on a voluntary basis together with the population of Berne.

Legend has it that in gratitude the city of Berne granted them the right for all times to carry their produce to market in Berne on the fourth Monday in November.

This market has been held ever since the 15th century, and, as there are more onions offered for sale than any other kind of produce, the name "onion market" became tradition. It does not meet daily needs like other markets held in Berne, but allows city housewives to replenish their stock of less perishable vegetables.

Since her girlhood this woman has been selling her produce at Berne's onion market.

Many tons of onions are for sale, piled into baskets or placed in braids of all sizes, adorning the stalls and giving the market its traditional note. Although times have changed and it is no longer the custom to lay in stocks of food for the winter, the market remains as popular as ever with the Bernese housewives, and no home is without its traditional braid of onions, some bundles of leek and garlic, golden shallots (tiny onions) and several pounds of nuts.

All during November, a miniature onion market haunts the sweet shops, and the Bernese send strings of marzipan onions to their friends all over the world.

In the course of the years, the event has become a popular festival with confetti and streamers flying through the air until everyone wades ankle-deep in colored paper. Dusk falls early on this cold November evening and soon merry-makers fill the cozy restaurant to partake of sausages, onion cakes and pies. Groups of students disguised as onions go from one line to another singing and telling of local scandals of the past year.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Right now I am smoking myself to death waiting for my husband to come home. He went to a football game this afternoon with "the boys." It is midnight and he's not back yet.

We've been married two years and have no children. We both work and our marriage is a happy one, except for this one bad habit. If he decides to have a few drinks with the fellows after work he just goes without bothering to call and may he'll be late. When he finally gets home and I ask him why he didn't phone me says, "I didn't think of it." I'm sure I'm not the only woman in the world who has this problem. What do other women do?—OUTA MYMIND.

Dear Outa: Other women do the same thing you do—worry themselves sick, walk the floor and ask themselves 1,000 times, "Where can he be?" and "Why doesn't he call?" The answers you know very well. He's in a saloon, slopped to the eyeballs. And he doesn't call because he's a selfish, inconsiderate heel. But he's YOUR heel, and you must somehow live through the agony of it until he grows up and begins to behave like a man.

Dear Ann Landers: The person who signed himself "Cynic" should have signed himself "Ignorant." The fact that you did not refute this statement that animals kill only for food and that they do not abandon their young, shows that you've got a lot to learn about animals, too.

Weasels kill for the sake of killing. One farmer reported losing 40 chickens in a single night. The barracuda is another blood lust killer. Some tame animals are killers, too. A male hamster or rabbit will kill his offspring if he can get at them.

Frogs, fish and other aquatic creatures sometimes devour their young. Certain insects, such as the praying mantis and the black widow spider eat their mates.

For Miss Holcombe

Party Whirl for Bride-to-Be

A whirl of parties has started the social calendar of Miss Joy Holcombe prior to her coming marriage this Saturday.

An orchid corsage was presented to the guest of honor and a pink carnation corsage to Mrs. W. Jonat, mother of the groom-elect when she was honored at a shower given by the senior and junior missionary classes of Victoria Gospel Hall. A mauve and white theme was used in decorations and the refreshment table was centred with a cake in replica of a bride that was made by Mrs. S. Oliver. There were 60 guests present.

Trousseau gifts were contained in a decorated suitcase when Miss Maureen Gill entertained at a surprise shower in her home on Quadra Street. The bride-elect received a corsage of white carnations and the groom-elect's mother was presented with white chrysanthemums.

Guests included Mrs. V. Gill, Mrs. L. Troop, Mrs. F. Frewing, Mrs. R. Streeton, Mrs. W. Woodford, Mrs. D. Harvey-

Smith, the Misses Pauline Carter, Joan Gilmore, Beverley Hill, Dorothy Nunn, Sheila Gill, Judy Gill, Sylvia Woodford and Doreen Frewing.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. English will mark their diamond wedding anniversary next Monday by holding two receptions for relatives and friends. The receptions will be from 2:30 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. in their home at 463 Constance Avenue. The couple will be assisted by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil English and their family. Prior to coming to Victoria in 1940, Mr. and Mrs. English ran a farm in Harding, Man., where Mr. English was born and raised. He is the proud owner of many farming medals and trophies, some dating back as far as 1907. —(Kandid Camera)

Warned to Resist Beautiful Women

JAKARTA (Reuters)—Indonesians have been warned to beware of beautiful young women—whether white, Malay or Chinese.

They may be Malaysian spies, authorities said. All Sasroamidjojo, deputy chairman of the people's consultative congress, said in a speech that Malaysia was using beautiful women to try to weaken Indonesia's "confrontation" policy against the Malaysian Federation.

He appealed especially to young men to resist the charms of a woman—no matter how beautiful—if they suspected she was an espionage agent.

Beatrice Home

Hardly Big Enough To Be Called Castle

When interviewed in Ottawa during a private visit last year, HRH Princess Beatrix said about her new home: "It is hardly big enough to be called a castle. I did the whole thing over myself. I've been in love with that castle ever since I was eight years old."

The Princess's home lies hidden between tall copper beeches and dark green firs at some 20 miles distance South East of Amsterdam. The octagonal structure is surrounded by the traditional moat, over which a drawbridge gives the only access to the house.

Only a few weeks after her 25th birthday in January 1963, Princess Beatrix of the Netherlands moved into a home of her own, named "Drakesteijn" (meaning: "Dragon Stone").

The nearest hamlet is called Lage Vuursche. It is set in woods and moors, a summer attraction for hikers. Here holiday makers can play midget golf at the Vuursche Inn or forget about their waitline by feasting on the Inn's pancakes almost as large as a wagon wheel.

MONK'S FARM

The site of today's "Drakesteijn" figures in the annals of history since the eleventh century. It was then that the Bishop of Utrecht gave permission to a colony of monks to settle in the Vuursche. For centuries this colony held communion to live and farm at the Vuursche, which at the time was marshland surrounded by great forests, the home of wolves, swine and deer. The monks built a farm on the site where now "Drakesteijn" stands.

In the year 1352 the concession to the colony was withdrawn and the area leased to a nobleman by the name of Werner van Drakenburg. The new lord of the Vuursche estate built a manor on the spot where the monks had once built their farm. The descendants of Werner van Drakenburg lived on the same spot for many generations.

The centuries passed and an early forebear of Princess Beatrix temporarily held the site, Prince Frederik Hendrik (1584-1647), the Prince of Orange who put a successful end to the Eighty Years War with Spain, became the owner of the manor. Besides his strategic gifts, the Prince was a refined scholar and gave impetus to his time's art and culture. His son married the daughter of King Charles I of England.

OCTAGONAL STRUCTURE

In the 17th century, Holland's Golden Age, the patrician merchant family of van der Weede bought the site (1640). The old manor was demolished and an architect from The Hague was engaged to construct what became known as "Drakesteijn." The castle was built in the Dutch style of that time, with stress on symmetry. The octagonal ground plan has a diameter of only 80 feet. It has four floors: a basement level with the surrounding moat, a ground floor and two upper floors. Originally the tiny castle had four slender towers above its slated roof. These were later replaced by one small bell-tower, from which nowadays Princess Beatrix's standard flies.

Because of financial troubles, the van der Weede family had to part with their property in 1806. "Drakesteijn" then was sold to the Bosch family of Utrecht, who ever since called themselves "Bosch van Drakesteijn." It is from this family that Holland's Crown Princess bought her new home.

OWN TASTE

The Princess has personally supervised the appointment of her miniature castle and made it entirely to her own personal taste.

After having crossed the drawbridge over the moat, one enters the house into a spacious hall surrounded by several living and reception rooms and a kitchen. On the first floor there are more living rooms and several bedrooms. Under the slope of the slated roof there are six bedrooms. Although tiny by some standards, the attractive octagonal structure is roomy enough to house a royal household. It is more. It is the busy basis of an exuberantly active Princess of an ancient Royal House.

Smith-Holland

Yellow and White Theme

A slipper-length gown of nylon and lace was worn by Mary Patricia Holland for her marriage to Mr. Lynn Trevor Smith. The gown featured a square neckline covered with pearls and sequins, and was designed with fly-point sleeves. Her short veil was held with little white flowers and she carried yellow roses and stephanotis in her bouquet.

Centennial United Church was decorated with yellow and purple chrysanthemums for the double-ring wedding. Rev. S. J. Parsons officiated.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Holland, Esquimalt Road, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith of Davie Street.

Bouquets of orange chrysanthemums were carried by Mrs. Ben E. Powell Jr., matron of honor. Miss Mary Vanderjagt was bridesmaid and flower girl was Miss Jane Stanley. They wore yellow gowns.

Best man was Mr. Tom Holland and ushers were Mr. William Holland and Mr. Ben Powell Jr.

Mr. Thomas Michell proposed the toast at a reception at the Buttermakers' Hall.

On going away the bride wore a white wool suit with black accessories. On returning the couple will live at 989 Wollaston Street. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. G. Powell of Sidney and Mrs. F. Stanley and family of Vancouver.

Agencies Do Big Business

STUTTGART (Reuters)—Between one-fifth and one-quarter of West German marriages are made through a marriage agency or pea friends' club.

The Stuttgart Association, linking the country's 280 marriage bureaux, reports that people from all walks of life, including millionaires, aristocrats and university lecturers, seek marital happiness under their auspices.

Guild Observes 21st Anniversary

Mrs. R. I. Jeffels was hostess to the members of the Women's Guild of St. David's Church-by-the-Sea, when they met at her Polson Terrace home.

Plans for the Christmas bazaar were made, and as the Guild is observing its 21st anniversary this year, Canon Frederic Pike, who organized the group, has been invited to open the bazaar. A large birthday cake is being prepared.

Cordova Bay Guides have been granted permission to have a stall for the sale of their handicrafts at the bazaar. Proceeds will go toward the building fund of the church. A committee of Mrs. J. M. B. Nicoll, Mrs. Hilda Walker, Mrs. N. Life and Mrs. Hays will serve supper to the men of the church when they meet Monday, the 16th.

Christmas Bazaar

St. Mark's Christmas bazaar will be held in the Parish hall, Tennyson Avenue at Boleskine, on Wednesday, Nov. 18.

Mrs. R. Willis will open the affair at 2 p.m. Homecooking will be sold by Mrs. W. Gilmore and Mrs. H. Salch; aprons by Mrs. A. W. Weston and Mrs. F. Simpson; gifts by Mrs. H. J. Powell and Mrs. P. E. George; superfluties by Mrs. E. C. Head and Mrs. F. Hamilton; cards by Mrs. R. L. Flint.

Mrs. H. T. Shemilt is looking after the tea.

TV TALK

By BRUCE LOWTHER

TV NOTES: They had Liz Taylor in London on TV. Sophia Loren in Rome and Grace Kelly in Monaco. Now the word is that Tony Curtis may do a special in which he would tour his native Bronx... In fact, ABC plans a weekly series in which celebrities would tour their hometowns... Channel 4, the ABC channel in Seattle, sends along ratings which show ABC took 18 of the top 20 in that area Sept. 23-Oct. 6, with NBC getting the others... The critics are praising Les Crane's new ABC talk show. Not me—I think it's awful.

Government Probing Radioactive Lakes

Radiation Reaction

'Fish Are All Dead'

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press

The folks in Elliot Lake are just plain puzzled about the uproar down in southern Ontario and Ottawa over radioactive pollution of waterways in the northern uranium mining district.

"People here know the conditions and they're not at all concerned," said weekly newspaper editor Jake Thompson Friday of a report by the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

SERPENT RIVER

The report, which said contamination of the Serpent River watershed area near Elliot Lake could become serious if unchecked, prompted questions in Parliament, criticism by Ontario opposition members and a union demand for investigations in the Bancroft, Ont., and Beavertown, Sask., uranium areas as well as Elliot Lake.

Mr. Thompson, editor of the Elliot Lake Standard, said:

RADIATION HAZARDS

"Nobody ever talks about radiation hazards around here unless somebody says he's going fishing in such-and-such a lake and somebody else says, 'don't go there, the fish are all dead.'"

Mr. Thompson suggested the rate of radiation recorded last summer in the nearby Serpent River watershed may have been caused by a June rainstorm that washed away uranium-mine waste.

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Pearson said Friday his government is investigating reports of radioactive water in northern Ontario, but took issue with statements saying the pollution was endangering the community of Elliot Lake.

The Toronto Globe and Mail, in a copyright story, said drinking water for 8,000 residents at the uranium townsite — in Mr. Pearson's own Algoma East riding — is radioactive at or above danger levels. The story said pollution has been at this level for more than a year.

Under questioning in the Commons from former Conservative finance minister George Nowlan, Mr. Pearson said: "As soon as I heard about the report, I contacted federal officials."

EXAMINING MATTER

"We are examining the matter to see what can be done in co-operation with the provincial government," he added.

Mr. Pearson termed "misleading" the headline over the story, which read "Elliot Lake Contaminated by Radioactive Mine Waste."

"It (the headline), as well as the story, if it is misinterpreted, could do very serious damage to a community that already has suffered a great deal of misfortune," he said.

WATERSHED AREA

Mr. Pearson said the waters involved were Quirk Lake and the Serpent River watershed, which are not connected at all to Elliot Lake.

"Elliot Lake as such is not involved," he said.

The newspaper story said radiation levels were above the safe accepted level in both lakes. It said an Ontario Water Resources Commission report, not yet released, measured radioactivity in Elliot Lake at 12 to 14 picocuries per litre. Quirk Lake was measured at 40 to 100 picocuries per litre.

WRONG IMPRESSION

The accepted long-term safe concentration is 10 picocuries per litre.

Mr. Pearson said he "was anxious to remove the wrong impression" from the headline and story that Elliot Lake is connected to Quirk Lake.

The prime minister also denied charges by NDP leader T. C. Douglas that the matter had been kept from the public for more than two years.

"It has not been kept under wraps in any sense at all," Mr. Pearson replied.

Fallout Checks Resumed

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal health department's radiation protection division has resumed checks of milk samples for the presence of radioactive iodine-131 as a result of the Oct. 16 Chinese nuclear explosion.

Iodine-131, a radioactive product of nuclear bomb explosions, is one of the first fission products to be detected following an atomic blast. It has a half-life of about eight days—that is it loses half its strength in that time and every succeeding eight days.

Checks of milk samples for iodine-131 were discontinued in September, 1963, because levels were so small at that time that they could hardly be measured.

Dr. Peter Bird, chief of the division, said Friday in an interview that air sample checks since the Oct. 16 explosion show a slight rise in radioactivity levels across Canada.

Woman Elected

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Carrie Oates Friday became the first woman mayor in the 57-year history of the city of North Vancouver.

Psychic Powers

Psychic powers of Linda Anderson, 15, of Lowell, Mass., are put to test as her father adjusts himself. Linda's powers were discovered accidentally during experiments with hypnosis. She was called in by Lowell police to aid in search for missing five-year-old boy. She told police he is in a house, and police are now concentrating search in inspection of area houses.—(AP)

Winds of Change

Soviet Farmers Still Fall Short

The Soviet Union, with almost half its population on the farm—as against eight per cent on farms in the U.S.—can hardly feed itself, Willson Woodside said Friday.

The national director of the United Nations Association of Canada was giving his second address in Victoria in two days.

Friday he spoke on Winds of Change in Russia to the Canadian Club of Victoria. Thursday he spoke on Continuing Crisis in the UN to the women's branch of the same club. Both talks were in the Empress Hotel.

SOVIET TRIP

Mr. Woodside, writer, lecturer, broadcaster and student of international affairs, recently returned from a trip to the Soviet Union.

Here are some of his impressions:

MIX WITH VISITORS

Soviet people now mix with foreign visitors.

Young Soviet people especially seem to have no inhibitions about meeting and talking with foreigners.

The Soviet regime is forever boasting that in some respects it is the leading country in the world—with the highest production of coal, steel, non-ferrous metals, machine tools—but is not able to give its people as good a living as other countries enjoy.

POOR QUALITY

Billions of dollars worth of unsaleable consumer goods are piling up in warehouses because of bad quality.

The food situation is as much a cause of discontent as housing. Visitors to Russia say, "They can go to the moon, why can't they run an elevator?"

Mr. Woodside said another dispute with China which won't be changed by Khrushchev's departure is the Chinese claim to large territories in Central Asia and the Far East which were seized and colonized by Czarist Russia only a century ago.

"I was in the Soviet Union when Mao received a Japanese Socialist delegation, and talked to them about all the territory the Russians had seized from them, from China, Finland, the Baltic states, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Romania," he said.

"He as much as said 'we should all get together and make them hand it back.' This was a purely national and not a party issue."

Thugs Attack Editors' Houses

QUEBEC (CP)—Police are investigating damage to the homes of two Quebec newspaper men, Jean-Charles de La Durantaye, managing editor of Le Soleil and L'Evenement, and Lorenzo Pare, editor-in-chief of L'Action.

In both cases, small containers filled with printers' ink were thrown at the walls of the two houses, and total damage was estimated at $1,000.

Airlines Agree On Fare Level

ATHENS (UPI)—The International Air Transport Association ended its seven-week conference Friday with agreement to maintain present fares on most of the world's air routes.

Ottawa Rejects Bid By Superannuates

The federal government has turned down a bid for higher pensions for federal superannuates, F. W. Whitehouse of Victoria said Friday. He had just received the news in a letter from Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Whitehouse went to Ottawa two weeks ago with a delegation of the Federal Superannuates National Association to present a brief requesting adjustment of pensions.

"The government's refusal came as a bombshell," he said.

The group had asked for a greater share of a fund built up to $1,800,000,000 since 1924 jointly by the government and the superannuates.

CANNOT ACCEPT

"We cannot and will not accept the reasons given by the government for turning down our request," Mr. Whitehouse said yesterday.

In his letter Mr. Pearson said that "any steps the government should propose to Parliament... should be general in character and not confined to former employees of the government."

He said retired civil servants will get the same treatment as others under old-age pensions and assistance plans.

"Already those over 70 will have received benefits increased by $240 per year per pensioner."

over the level that pertained... in 1950," he wrote.

"In addition to this, hospital insurance has become available to retired persons on a national basis since that time."

"Under provisions of the Canada Pension Plan Bill which has just been made public the amount of the old age security pension available to all Canadians meeting the residence qualifications will be adjusted to take into account changes in the cost of living."

DISCRIMINATION

Mr. Pearson said that granting of the increases would discriminate against retired persons who had not worked for the government.

The brief requested increase of pensions to match the purchasing power of today's dollar.

ON PITTANCE

"For years," Mr. Whitehouse said, "thousands of federal superannuates have lived on a pittance. They paid for their pensions with dollars which are now worth only 33 cents."

"The principle underlying this request has been recognized by other countries including Great Britain and the U.S. a decade ago," he said.

"To say that we are disappointed is putting it mildly."

Injured Logger Recovering

A Langford logger is in good condition in hospital today after being injured in a woods accident near Sooke Thursday.

Vernon Smith, 2756 Winster, is in St. Joseph's Hospital suffering head and face injuries.

Sooke RCMP said he was apparently injured when a heavy beam split. Smith is employed by a Pacific Logging Ltd. sub-contractor.

Empty Rifle Routs Burglar

A Victoria hunter has reason today to be glad he decided to mount his four rifles on his bedroom wall.

Daniel Wernsen, 484 Superior, and his wife were awakened by a tall, dark prowler who was entering their bedroom at about 3 a.m. Friday.

The husband leaped from bed, grabbed a rifle and chased the prowler out into the street where he lost sight of him.

"I'm glad the rifles were nearby, but I'm also glad they weren't loaded. It would be terrible to shoot somebody—even a prowler," said Mrs. Wernsen Friday.

United Appeal Booth Helps to Fill the Gap

The United Appeal collection booth at Yates and Douglas had its best day to date Friday with receipts of $272.50.

Readings Set For 'Portrait'

The third major production for 1964-65 by the Victoria Theatre Guild will be the play Portrait in Black.

Readings for five men and three women in a variety of age brackets are set for 8 p.m. Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Steele, 24 Douglas Street.

Total collections to date are $372,813, which is 90.9 per cent of the goal of $410,000.

In charge of the downtown collection booth Friday were five foster-mothers of the Family and Children's Service. Today it will be manned by personnel from the YMCA.

Those who would like to make an extra contribution and those who might not have been able to make an initial one, last month may donate at the booth, at banks or department stores.

Three Threats Face Viet Nam

Guerrillas Seize Chance To Push Through Floods

SAIGON (AP)—Communist guerrillas advanced southward through flood-ravaged South Viet Nam north of Saigon Friday while in the capital Premier Tran Van Huong stood off two challenges to his new regime.

Montreal Invaded By CORE

MONTREAL (UPI) — Some 30 Negro and white pickets from the Syracuse, N.Y., chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality Friday picketed a downtown hotel while the World Public Relations convention was in progress.

The pickets demanded that the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. end its "policy of racial tokenism and integrate its work force."

An associate of the company is a delegate to the convention.

EAST FARMINGDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Employment at Republic Aviation Co. has reached an all-time low because of the phase-out of the F-105 fighter-bomber. But the company admits it doesn't know how low.

A Republic spokesman explained the firm was unable to keep track of the number of workers being laid off because "some of the people who keep the records were laid off."

Indirect Aid to UN

Door Left Open For Soviet Offer

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States in effect has invited the Soviet Union to make an indirect payment to solve the dispute over its debt to United Nations peace-keeping funds.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, after a meeting with Secretary-General U Thant, said Friday his government would be satisfied with payments by the Soviet Union "in any form" without prejudice to the legal position of the Soviet Union "or anyone else."

WILL LEAD MOVE.

If no solution is found when the General Assembly convenes Dec. 1, the U.S. will lead a move to take away Soviet voting rights on the grounds its debt now exceeds two years' assessments.

The Soviet Union has hinted that it might walk out if it is refused a vote.

Stevenson's statement left the door open for the Russians to make a voluntary contribution to some UN agency not connected with peace-keeping. This would get around the Soviet and French view that the assessments in question are illegal because they were voted by the assembly rather than the Security Council, where the countries have veto power.

Chou Leaves Moscow

Friends—That's All

MOSCOW (AP)—Chou En-lai had a farewell talk with Soviet leaders Friday that seemed to have no curative influence on the Soviet-Chinese split. Then the Chinese premier and his entourage took a plane for Peking.

Chou and his delegation of experts talked with the new Soviet leaders headed by Communist party secretary Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin "in a frank, comradely atmosphere," a communique said.

NOTHING MORE.

It said nothing more.

Instead, the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda reiterated policies, such as peaceful coexistence with the United States, that are denounced by Peking. Throughout

MEETING OFF.

Unconfirmed reports from some Communists said Chou and Brezhnev agreed to hold more talks in Peking early next year. In the meanwhile, the sources said, the Kremlin would postpone a meeting it scheduled for Dec. 15 to prepare a world Communist conference in mid-1965.

China had denounced both the preparatory meeting and conference as Soviet efforts to split the Communist movement. The Kremlin insisted they were to bring unity.

Albania: Still No

VIENNA (UPI) — The Albanian Communist party declared itself still firmly opposed to Kremlin policy Friday on grounds that the new Soviet leadership is still "revisionist."

The pronouncement came in an editorial published by the Communist party organ Zeri i Popullit.

'Empire-Building' Hospital Lashed

'Maladministration' At Jubilee--Martin

By BOB DONAHUE

Health Minister Eric Martin Friday called the administration of the Royal Jubilee Hospital "empire builders" and cited "months of maladministration" at the hospital.

He was commenting on a suggestion by Dr. D. M. Whately, chief of the medical staff at the Jubilee, that the Veterans' Hospital be taken over as a convalescent wing to the Jubilee.

"If the federal government did turn control of the hospital over to the province I would recommend it not be turned over to the Royal Jubilee because of months of maladministration."

"The situation will only improve when the administration of that hospital ceases to be empire builders," said the minister.

He blamed the increased length of stay for patients at the hospital on "lack of proper medical supervision."

Mr. Martin was critical of the general administration and medical supervision.

NO SPARRING

"The patient days at the Jubilee have increased to 11.1 from 10.8 last year. This has deprived 508 persons of hospital beds since the beginning of the year," he said.

"There has been no sparring between the federal and provincial governments over transfer of the Veterans' Hospital," he said. "They haven't even suggested it."

"They just won't lie down—those people who are making all these wild statements," said the minister.

FEELINGS CLEAR

Meanwhile, Royal Canadian Legion officials leveled a broadside at any suggestion the Veterans' Hospital be taken over to alleviate the bed shortage in Greater Victoria.

Declared zone commander S. J. Mayzes: "We don't have to go around answering any stray MD. Our feelings have been made abundantly clear."

EASY WAY OUT

"I'm glad this bed problem has been given a good airing. It pinpoints they are having problems of their own. They should work them out on their own."

"Talking over our hospital is only adopting the least line of resistance. It is an easy way out for them," he declared.

Hernia Halts Title Fight

BOSTON—A hernia condition, present since childhood but which erupted only last night at dinner time, sent heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay to hospital for an emergency operation.

15-Cent City Bus Fare Urged for All-Diesel Fleet

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 2½ to five cent fare increase to finance a changeover to diesel buses was proposed Friday for the B.C. Hydro and power authority's transit system.

John Curtin of Philadelphia, a transit consultant, made the proposal at a Public Utilities Commission hearing into Hydro's proposed fare increases in Vancouver and Victoria.

NECESSARY AMOUNT

The 2½ to five cent increase would raise the estimated $18,000,000 necessary for the changeover from electric trolley and gasoline buses, he said.

His proposal followed an earlier statement by Thomas Peacock, another transit consultant, that Hydro would save $375,000 a year by switching to an all-diesel fleet.

TEN MUNICIPALITIES

Both consultants are working for 10 Vancouver and Victoria municipalities which are fighting Hydro's proposal to raise fares to 25 cents cash from 15 cents here and 13 cents in Victoria.

Mr. Curtin proposed a cash fare of 20 cents cash and two token fares for 35 cents in Vancouver. For Victoria, he proposed an increase to 15 cents cash. Mr. Curtin said his proposal could offset a projected debt of $3,900,000 this year.

Syrian Border

Planes End Battle

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes destroyed Syrian border posts with napalm and gunfire Friday after a ground battle set off by Syrian shooting, an Israeli military spokesman announced. He said two Israeli civilians were wounded in the two-hour fight.

Meanwhile, a Syrian military spokesman said seven Syrians were killed and 26 others wounded in the clash.

GUNS, TANKS

The Israeli spokesman said the Syrians started the fight with machine-gun fire, then lobbed in mortar shells and finally brought up two Second World War tanks.

The spokesman said the tanks were knocked out by fire from two Israeli tanks.

13th Adds Insult To Injury

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — The next time Friday the 13th rolls around, Oakville farmer Don Chapman will probably stay in bed.

Mr. Chapman left for work in nearby Clarkson as usual Friday and, along the way, hit a dog. While trying unsuccessfully to avoid the animal, he drove his car into the ditch. That blew a tire.

He left his car to attend to the injured dog. The dog bit him, tearing his pants.

He changed the tire on his car and drove home to change his clothes. There he discovered he had locked himself out of the house.

Going in by a cellar window, Mr. Chapman put his foot in a tub of home-made beer he was preparing for Christmas.

He finally got to work, late of course, and was informed that he would be docked an hour's pay.

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRM

A week or so ago, when we were discussing the fall care of the lawn and the necessity of getting all the fallen leaves raked up, I did a spot of ranting about the criminal waste of precious soil-building humus when these autumn leaves are consumed in bonfires. It is true that the ashes contain useful amounts of potash, but most of the goodness goes up in smoke in the form of volatile gases.

In any case, it isn't so much the plant food in the leaves and garden wastes that is needed, for nutrients can be supplied cheaply and much more conveniently in the form of chemical fertilizer. It is the sheer bulkiness of the leaves and rubbish that is so valuable in converting rather poor garden soil into mellow and fertile loam.

Follow this up with another proper fermentation, for the heap has to "work" like wine or rising bread dough. About six feet by four is the practicable minimum.

If the leaves are very dry, wet them down with the hose or watering can, then sprinkle a little fertilizer over the damp material. It doesn't matter what kind of fertilizer you use—if you have some left over from feeding the lawn, it will serve admirably.

The first layer is now complete, and all that remains is to repeat the process—trampled leaves and garden trash, water, fertilizer, soil—over and over again, building up your heap until it is four or five feet high, or until you run out of materials. Build it with slightly sloping sides, a bit narrower on top, and finish off by punching a few holes in the heap from top to bottom with a crowbar or rake handle; this is to admit air to the lower layers.

Fermentation will start almost right away, generating heat in the process, and it is quite a common thing to see steam rising from it in cold weather. Eventually, winter cold will penetrate the heap, and fermentation will stop during frosty periods, resuming again as the weather warms up.

Next year, after the bulk of the spring work is out of the way and you have a little spare time on your hands, it is a good idea to take your compost heap apart and remake it, turning it top to bottom and sides to middle, wetting it down again if necessary so all the material rots down evenly. By next fall, you'll have a supply of flaky brown compost with a lovely earthy smell to it, fairly brimming with fertility. A handful of this stuff placed in the bottom of a planting hole when setting out plants makes for brimming health and vigorous growth.

Making compost is something like making homemade wine—there is a simple, basic way, such as I have described, but there are also all kinds of refinements and variations to make better compost, more compost, or to make it faster. Some of these refinements will be discussed in my next column.

Christmas Carroll Bares All

NEW YORK (NANA)—The Christmas number of that very girly-girly magazine, will have five pages of Carroll Baker wearing nothing but a smile.

Shirley MacLaine could not appear at the sneak preview of her John Goldfarb, Please Come Home picture in New York, because she was still in Iran. Which prompts the question, where is Robert Mitchum? When last seen, Robert was in Tokyo with Shirley and her husband Steve Parker. The Shirley-Mitchum friendship is not only one of the loveliest I ever remember, but one of the longest lasting. Why, some Hollywood marriages don't last as long. . . . Parker was in New York for his picture.

Julie Andrews adores the idea of taking over the role in Hawaii that was originally planned for Audrey Hepburn. It's a sort of movie musical chairs with these two charmers. And 'twouldn't surprise me if they both win the Oscar — Audrey for My Fair Lady, Julie for Mary Poppins. In the very earliest days of the awards, there was I believe, a tie for first place.

Can Elizabeth Taylor be really serious about her future billing as "Elizabeth Burton"? I believe she is. In private life stars very often use their married surnames. I've heard Rosalind Russell introduce herself as Rosalind Brisson. And Carroll Baker always calls herself Mrs. Jack Garfield away from the cameras. Actually, Miss Taylor doesn't need a last name. She could be billed simply as "Elizabeth."

David Semick has an idea of flying to Switzerland to tape a two-hour interview with Charlie Chaplin for his Open End television show. It would be interesting.

Arlene Dahl and ex-mate but one, Fernando Lamas, seem to have a lot to say when they talk long distance, and short distance. Which makes me wonder if Fernando's long friendship with Katharine Williams—they never did get around to marrying—is over, or about to be. Fernando was Arlene's middle husband—first was Lex Barker. Last, Chris Holmes.

The Modigliani for which Ben Little paid $7,000, and kept in the cellar because she didn't like it, has been appraised by Sotheby's of London at $150,000. It is no longer in her cellar.

Greta Garbo is seeing more people since her close friend, George Schaefer, passed away.

Pretty Dawn Addams is taking "flying lessons" for her Peter Pan engagement at the Scala in London, for the Christmas holidays.

I find it hard to believe that Richard Burton and Liz Taylor will seek to have Eddie Fisher's adoption of the little German girl, Maria, set aside so that Richard can be her legal daddy. Although with Eddie unable to see the little girl, much as he would like to, and Richard absolutely devoted to her and she to him, it does make some sort of sense.

What's all this about Marlene Dietrich acting as peacekeeper between her daughter Maria and son-in-law Bill Bova? I didn't know they were having any trouble. . . . Eddie Newman, among other friends of the late Cole Porter, is championing a series of scholarships in his name for striving songwriters who need financial help.

Dino de Laurentiis plans to release his picture with Sonny and Richard Harris, by Christmas—according to Mr. Harris. But that is being optimistic. Christmas is only a few weeks away. And while Richard has finished his segment in the picture, there are two more with two other leading men.

British playwright Wolf Mankowitz is writing a musical version of Mata Hari, and he is after Melina Mercouri to play the famed and sex-loaded spy of the First World War.

ART BUCHWALD Has Lunch With a Computer

Now for the Yankees!

The triumph of the computer in the 1964 U.S. elections was a frightening thing to see. Although only two per cent of the country had voted, the computers were able to declare a winner at 7 o'clock at night. The two key words in the campaign were precision and analysis. Having had such a success, the computers are hard to live with.

We had lunch with one the other day. Its lights were twinkling and it had a big grin on its panel board.

"I'll bet you're glad the elections are over."

It whirled contentedly. "The issue was never in doubt," we read on the tape.

"What gave you the biggest scare?"

"An 80-year-old lady in Idaho tied to us, and on the basis of it projected a landslide for Goldwater. But fortunately I caught it before we went on the air."

"How did you feel about being on television?"

"You get used to it, Frankly. I thought Cronkite was on camera too much. After all, I was doing all the work and he was taking the bows. I think he could have thrown the ball to me a little more often."

"Didn't you predict Robert Taft would be a winner in Ohio?"

"I predicted 700 races correctly and all everyone remembers is I made a mistake in Ohio. It really hurts. You know, computers have feelings, too."

"I'm sorry. I didn't mean to point out an error."

"You know what happened in Ohio? Cleveland. That's what happened in Ohio. More people voted in Cleveland than should have, but nobody tells me anything."

"Please don't get excited. You did a wonderful job."

The computer calmed down.

"I'm sorry, but I've had a nerve-wracking time. There have been so many things to remember, so many figures to digest, and so much pressure from the network. I guess I'm a little tired."

"What are your plans for the next four years?"

"CBS has me figuring out what to do with the New York Yankees. Now that I got Yogi Berra fired, I've got to start analyzing the team from scratch."

Hernia Fells Cassius Clay; Fight Off for Several Months

BOSTON (AP)—Heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay underwent a successful operation for a hernia Friday night in City Hospital, where he had been taken by ambulance from his hotel.

The announcement came from the surgeon, Dr. William McDermott of Harvard. The operation took approximately one hour.

The title fight scheduled Monday between Clay and challenger Sonny Liston had been postponed indefinitely earlier in the evening.

Dr. McDermott said Clay can resume "fairly normal physical activity in about a month."

Asked about heavy training, Dr. McDermott said: "We usually would have him off about three months from any heavy labor."

Dr. McDermott called it an "easy" operation. He added Clay's trouble was an incarcerated groin hernia with a congenital defect in the abdominal wall.

A hernia is the term applied when an organ or part of it protrudes through a connective tissue or through a wall of the cavity in which it is normally enclosed. The hernia is considered "incarcerated" when the protruding part is so large as not to be able to be pushed back through the opening.

Dr. McDermott said one of the nurses told Cassius: "You're the greatest, aren't you?" "Not tonight," came the reply.

Dr. McDermott said Clay would remain hospitalized for about a week and then he would have three additional weeks of convalescence.

NOT DANGEROUS
Asked what would have happened if Clay had not come to the hospital immediately and would it have been dangerous, Dr. McDermott said:

"It could have gone on for several hours. It wasn't that dangerous."

Dr. Nathan Shapiro, physician for the Massachusetts Boxing Commission, said earlier that there had been no sign of the hernia when he examined the heavyweight champion Monday.

EATS—THEN SICK
Dr. Shapiro said he understood that Clay became sick after having his dinner about 6:30 p.m.

Clay was eating with Drew Brown, his friend and assistant trainer, in their hotel room.

Brown said: "We were eating and watching television. Cassius had steak, potatoes, spinach and tossed salad."

BAD PAIN
"Just after he finished eating he got violently sick and started to throw up. His stomach swelled up the size of a football."

Clay said: "Get me to a hospital quick. I'm in bad pain."

SONNY SPEAKS
Liston, reached by phone at his Plymouth training camp, said:

"If he wouldn't be running along the streets the way he does, he wouldn't have anything wrong with him."

Liston's comment apparently was a reference to Clay's conduct Monday when he ran up and down Commonwealth Avenue stopping trolley cars and trucks and inquiring for the "Big Bear"—his name for Liston.

Flu Bug Infests B.C. Lions' Den

From CP, UPI Reports

CALGARY—All was not well in the Lions' den last night, the eve of the first game of the Western Conference football final.

Three B.C. Lions were suffering the effects of a 24-hour flu. By Bailey, Paul Seale and Greg Findlay all were under the weather but late last night it was felt that Bailey is the only one who may not play the entire game.

Coach Dave Skrien said that his key worry was that the flu might spread to the other players overnight.

"Such a thing could rip our club apart. The doctors say there is nothing we can do but hope. You can't isolate the players or give them a pill that provides protection."

Calgary called its first off-the-field psychological move by announcing the directors had given coach Bobby Dobbs a vote of confidence.

The eastern final may be seen over Channel 6 at 10 a.m. with the western game over Channel 5 and 6 at 1 p.m., according to the networks involved.

Club president George McMahon called a special meeting to break the news, hoping to bring the club to its peak morale and dispel coast to coast rumors that Dobbs' head was on the block.

There had been persistent reports the Calgary coach had to win the Western championship this season or be cut adrift.

McMahon said the club executive had not considered such action and no such move is contemplated in the immediate future.

Lions arrived by chartered plane Friday afternoon and a special bus carried them directly from the airport to the playing field. They went through a light calisthenic workout in sweatshirts, and footwear varied from running shoes to cleats.

MORRIS FREED
Defensive halfback Steve Shafer, who has not played since a knee operation Oct. 1, will replace Holland on offense, thus freeing Ron Morris for a return to his regular position as an offensive halfback.

POSSIBLE SNOW

Ti-Cats Healthy

Looks Like Mud in East

OTTAWA — While Calgary Stampede and B.C. Lions face a frozen field and possibly snow for today's opening game in the Western Football Conference, Ottawa Rough Riders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats may find themselves sloshing around on a muddy field in the Eastern Conference playoff opener.

Riders went through their final workout yesterday in a downpour, and more rain could possibly make a big difference to strategy being planned by opposing coaches.

Tiger-Cats, about as healthy as a football club can be at the end of a schedule, are favored by six points in today's game and by more to take the two-game, total-point final, which ends in Hamilton next Saturday.

"They," said Ottawa coach Frank Clair, "haven't even got as much as a hangnail to worry about."

It was different in the Ottawa camp. Canadian Whit Tucker, one of quarterback Russ Jackson's favorite targets, will be missing because of back troubles. Peter Quinn, Tucker's replacement, and import-back

Bo Scott are listed as doubtful starters.

FINE EFFORT
"I think we're going to have a fine effort," he said. "The team is up to much more of a peak than it was at this time last year, or in that back-to-back series earlier this season."

Clair was referring to successive 22-1 and 36-16 defeats planned on his club by the Tiger-Cats after the Riders had won the first game of the season between the two clubs, 13-10.

NEW WRINKLES
A few "new twists and wrinkles" were promised by Clair and observers were speculating that perhaps Ottawa's defence, which has yielded no points in the last two games, might cause Hamilton trouble this time around.

"We have got to have more ball control and stop their long pass," Clair summed up, probably remembering last year's final. In that one, Tiger-Cats rolled up a 45-0 lead in the first game with Bernie Faloney having a brilliant afternoon and Jackson smothered by a tough Hamilton defence.

NOT CONCERNED
Hamilton-coach Ralph Sazio appeared unconcerned about any Ottawa strategy as he and his club headed down last night.

"We'll be ready for any surprises—this isn't the first time we've played Ottawa," he said. "We'll be looking for a running attack with Jackson throwing the ball."

Army Pulls Upset

Last night was billed as Pontiacs Night in the Esquimalt Hockey League. It was all of that—only Army made certain that they shared the major glory.

The Army team, winless in its first four outings, upset Pontiacs, 8-6.

The other game saw University Vikings extend their first-place margin to four points by defeating Navy, 7-5.

The Soldiers, who hadn't exactly scared anybody up to this point, started fast last night, outscoring Pontiacs, 4-1, in the first period.

Loose checking by Pontiacs made it possible for the Army skaters to get untracked and they matched goals with the more-experienced club the rest of the way.

Vikings saved their power for the last period, outscoring the Sailors, 4-2, to salt away the victory.

Seals Lose Here Tonight

Victoria Maple Leafs, who can't seem to gain much ground on the four teams above them in the Western Hockey League, can and hope to do something about the one club that's below them.

Leafs entertain the last place San Francisco Seals in Memorial Arena tonight. Seals will likely still be smarting over DEPARTURE BAY — E. D. Strongthorn and C. T. Moop have been re-elected and Mrs. John Tully was elected as rural representative for the Departure Bay attendance area of the Nanaimo school district.

The meeting was the last in a series of rural electors' meetings in the 12 attendance areas in the school district to choose rural trustees. They will meet Nov. 25 to appoint three of their number to the district school board.

J. W. Manion, South Wellington, A. R. Luck, Harwood and Mrs. T. J. Morgan, South Cedar, are the three rural trustees whose two-year terms end this year. All were re-elected as rural representatives.

Navigation Expert

Commander Tingley Rites Today

Funeral services for a man who devoted his life to navigation will be held privately at McCall's funeral chapel today.

Commander Harold Reed Tingley died on Remembrance Day in Veterans' Hospital after a two-month illness. He was 70. The commander retired from the Royal Canadian Navy in 1947 after a career that began during the first World War with the Royal Navy.

He developed his navigational skill during his navy years and carried it over to merchant vessels after retirement.

The Nova Scotia-born navigator came to Victoria in 1928. He is survived by his wife Lilian.

last year, has died in a Victoria hospital in his 38th year. Funeral services for Mr. Cameron, a member of the Pacific Northwest Personnel Association, will be held in the Hirst Chapel at Duncan at 1:30 p.m. today.

ABOUSAHT — Skipper Ronnie Tomas, 30, of the Abousaht reserve, was taken to hospital in Tofino Thursday night. He suffered undetermined injuries when the 36-foot Pelto Logging Co. camp tender Ginger Boy hit a rock off the Herbert Island and sank close to the shore and to the village of Abousaht. Mr. Tomas was alone in the boat.

NANAIMO — Amendments to bylaws which have impeded Chamber of Commerce work will be introduced at the Chamber's next general meeting in the Tally-Ho, Dec. 2. They will change the end of the fiscal year to June 30 from Dec. 31 and set election of directors for March instead of January. Members found summer vacations split the fiscal year in half.

DUNCAN — This season's 30-week 4-H public speaking course, open to all 4-H members in the Cowichan-Cobbie Hill area, will begin at 7:45 p.m. Monday in the Cowichan Agricultural Society board room. Graeme Johnstone is in charge and is aided by other members of the Duncan and District Toastmasters' Club.

NANAIMO — New officers of the city yacht club are Frank Cowie, commodore; Norman Martin, vice-commodore; Stanley Wardill, rear-commodore; Ed Robinson, secretary; Robert McDougall, treasurer; Thomas Wintermute, fleet captain, and Dr. J. E. Boulding, W. Low, Howard Nicholson, Robert Nash and Jack Warwick.

LAKE COWICHAN — The women's group of the Lake Cowichan United Church has elected Mrs. R. Mahon as vice-president and Mrs. C. Anderson as secretary, and will fill the positions of president and treasurer at a later meeting. Committee conveners are Mrs. Adam Dickson, Mrs. David Fern, Mrs. J. L. Maitland, Mrs. William Pattie, Mrs. Thomas Marley and Mrs. K. MacCaskell.

LADYSMITH — Kenneth John Landers of Nanaimo has been fined a total of $47 in magistrate's court on charges of careless driving and failing to submit an accident report. Darrel Robert Foote of Duncan was fined $30 for taking some beer glasses from a local hotel.

CHEMAMOUS — C. H. Dowling of Central Mortgage and Housing will address a meeting of the Chemamus-Crofton and District Chamber of Commerce in the Horseshoe Bay Inn at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

More Room for Youth In Port Arena Soon

PORT ALBERNI — Hundreds of youngsters who use the civic arena for minor hockey will have adequate dressing room facilities when the arena addition opens later this month, says parks and recreation director Duncan Russell.

He says the new facilities will eliminate wasted time in the tight ice schedule — "one team will be ready to go on the ice when the other comes off."

EARLY HOURS — Skaters and hockey players keep the ice hot from early morning until late at night during the week while weekend activities continue until 2 or 3 a.m. The new skaters' lounge, which features additional concession stands, is lined on three sides by benches where skaters may be put on.

The room may prove popular for square dancing and other ac-

COMOX — RCAF Station Comox has a new wing commander and two new squadron leaders.

Promotions announced this week from headquarters in Ottawa:

● Sqn. Ldr. Bryan Crossfield, 38, of York, England, senior accountant officer at Comox since mid-1960, becomes a wing commander.

● Flt. Lt. William Cartwright, 45, of Revelstoke, was named squadron leader. He has been an aircraft engineering officer at Comox since August of 1963.

● Flt. Lt. Sidney Popham, 28, of London, Ont., a pilot with 408 Squadron since last August, also moves up to squadron leader.

● WO 2 Brian Smyth, 50, of Edmonton, with the supply and logistics branch, was named a warrant officer first class.

● Cpl. Ernest Cameron, 43, of Revelstoke, and Cpl. Louis Newell, 46, of Edmonton, both air force policemen, were promoted to sergeant.

Two awards were handed out recently to two Comox airmen from the Public Service of Canada suggestion awards committee.

Sgt. R. A. Dunn won his for a suggestion about a sonic test device for torpedoes, which the RCAF has officially adopted. LAC W. C. Baker was given his for a proposal concerning marking of Neptune propellers, also adopted.

Both men are of 407 Maritime Squadron.

$19,200 for Work In Indian Agency

DISCUSS—The federal government has allocated $19,200 for the community employment program in the large Cowichan Indian agency, an official of the Duncan Indian affairs branch said Friday.

Assistant branch superintendent G. W. Ewen said jobs such as road work, clearing of land, some reforestation, and the preparation of camping areas will be carried out on a number of reserves.

A beginning will also be made on a marina on the Decker Bay Indian reserve near Victoria.

Mr. Ewen said the community employment program, which is financed entirely by the federal government, is different from the winter incentive program, which is financed by the land.

No Basis for Report Airmen Not Hunting on Job

By DEVE McKELLAN
COMOX—Reports that RCMP personnel from Station Comox engaged in elk-hunting while on duty have been denied following an investigation conducted by the station administration staff.

Officials indicated Friday the inquiry determined there appears to be no basis for the reports, which had claimed the airmen used helicopters to transport carcasses.

It was learned this week that crews of 121 Search and Rescue Unit were in elk country near Gold Lake, 35 miles north of here, in early September. They spent three days near the lake clearing slash for an emergency landing field.

Game warden George Taylor of Campbell River has established several private hunting parties were in the same area at the same time.

Several elk were said to have been killed and, in some cases, only the hindquarters were taken out of the bush.

This last could have been done for two reasons:

• Bad weather settled in, including fog, rain and cold temperatures.

Some hunters went so deep into the area they found it too difficult to bring out all the game.

As a result, only the best meat was taken out.

The 121 reported it found two men attempting to cover part of the area by motorcycle. They had become lost and a private plane was asked to take them out.

The air force is said to be convinced its personnel was not implicated in the hunting.

Elk season in the area was from Sept. 14 to Nov. 1. It was not known if the hunting took place before the season began or, if it did, charges would be laid against any of the private hunters.

You Know Just How He Feels

Seemingly unhappy despite fact dental checkup is free to Bradley Coates, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Coates of Sunningdale Road in Qualicum Beach, being examined by Dr. H. G. Pettapiece of Parksville. B.C. government is paying for checkups for three-year-olds in Parksville-Qualicum, Campbell River and several mainland centres in pilot project which may extend next year to all three-year-olds in province.—(Agnie Flett)

Campbell River Vote

Each District To Decide Its Own Fate

CAMPBELL RIVER—If any one of the five areas votes to stay out of a district municipality, it can reverse its decision later with a petition from 60 per cent of its people.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell gave this assurance Thursday at a public meeting in the community hall during which he announced, as reported Friday, the five areas will vote Dec. 12 on the municipality proposal.

Mr. Campbell said the municipality would have to vote on the petitioning area's inclusion or exclusion.

COUNTED SEPARATELY

He said votes will be tabulated separately Dec. 12 in Campbell River, North Campbell River, Quinsam, Willow Point and Oyster Bay.

If one area votes no, it will be excluded. But if three vote no, or the overall vote is less than 60 per cent in favor, the municipality will not be formed.

If only Quinsam and the village voted yes, he said, it would not be fair for them to have the industrial tax base when the other, smaller areas are excluded.

He said Willow Point, where a majority apparently opposes the move, could incorporate by itself. But by 1967, it would grow to town status and would not have any industrial tax base to carry the financial load.

ELK FALLS

Mr. Campbell pointed out $140,000 in tax revenue from the Elk Falls pulp mill alone now goes to Victoria.

While he refused to define boundaries, he said they would be announced before the vote, and the John Hart powerhouse and damsite and B.C. Hydro townsite would be part of the district municipality.

He assured the nearly 500 in the audience that when the controversial western boundaries are decided nothing of assessable value will be left out of the municipality.

Other points:

• The Dec. 12 vote will allow time for a refund of industrial taxes for the past six months.

• The areas' present population of 7,500 will possibly rise to 12,000 in five years.

• Farm land and tree farm land will be taxed then as now.

• The shoreline will not be controlled by the municipality except for zoning purposes.

Navy League President To Pay Visit

The national president of the Navy League of Canada will start a two-week visit to B.C. Sunday.

Dr. Harry Roberts of St. John's, Nfld., first easterner to become the league's national president, will be accompanied by his wife. He will make inspections in Victoria and Nanaimo during his stay.

B.C. has 36 cadet and Wrenette corps with a combined enrolment of 2,500.

TWO TO COME

Two more at-large representatives and a Rotary Club member must still be named.

Council also approved the voters' list of 753 names, compared to 737 last year, after no appeals were made to the recent court of revision.

No New Term For Alderman

Eight-year Ald. James Saunders, an official of the excavating and trucking firm of Armour and Saunders, said Friday he will not seek reelection to Duncan city council in December due to "pressure of business in this booming district." He said "new blood" is needed on council.

B.C. Forest Products employee Lyle Reid already is a candidate for the seat.

Church Hall Work In Progress

CUMBERLAND—Renovations to two main sections of the Holy Trinity Church hall have begun with work on the restrooms.

The kitchens will also be renovated but work has started on the other section so as not to conflict with several teas planned in the hall.

The Holy Trinity Guild has planned three events, beginning with a home bake sale Dec. 4 in the coin laundry. A Christmas cake will be awarded to a lucky-number guesser.

The other events will be the guild's annual general meeting and dinner party in the hall Dec. 10 and provision of treats for the Sunday school Christmas tree Dec. 12.

Cumberland

Child Escapes Death in Fire

CUMBERLAND—Assistant chief Clive Banks of the Cumberland volunteer fire department saved a child from death in a recent house fire, it was learned Friday.

A report made by an investigator from the provincial fire marshal's office disclosed two sons of Mr. and Mrs. David Bell were alone in the home when the fire broke out.

CALLER DEPARTMENT

Neighbors and tradesmen called the volunteer department. Reports said four-year-old Neil made his way to safety by himself but three-year-old Sandy had hidden in a closet and might have died but for the rescue effort of Mr. Banks.

Damage estimated at $2,000 to the interior made the home uninhabitable. Cause of the fire was not reported.

Library Planner Requested

DUNCAN—The Cowichan district school board has decided to ask the B.C. education department to consider the appointment of a provincial school library co-ordinator.

The request will follow another board decision, to spend $15,000 next year for the purchase of library textbooks for the Maple Bay, Somers-Tanor, Duncan and Alexander elementary schools.

Three local teachers met the board to outline the needs of the schools under a three-year requisition: J. J. Gillatt, principal of Duncan Elementary; Gerry Watson, principal of Maple Bay Elementary; and Mrs. A. H. Harder, librarian.

Curling Club

Nanaimo Arsonist Given Probation

NANAIMO—A 33-year-old Nanaimo man pleaded guilty to an arson charge and was given a two-year suspended sentence by Magistrate Eric Winch in city magistrate's court Friday.

Stanley Gordon Stupich admitted setting fire to a pile of combustible material under a fire escape at the Nanaimo curling club rink Oct. 13.

Earlier, he had been remanded without plea for psychiatric examination and was found fit to undergo trial.

BOND POSTED

The magistrate also ordered posting of a $500 bond.

Crown prosecutor E. D. Strongtharm said no useful purpose could be gained by sending Stupich to jail.

But, at the request of both prosecution and defence, the magistrate added to the terms of probation stipulations that Stupich be placed on the interdiction list and submit to all recommended psychiatric assistance and treatment.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Magistrate Winch said, "This is a serious charge and aggravated by the fact there were two other fires that same weekend."

He was referring to fires that demolished the Forrester building and the McCracken building during the Thanksgiving weekend.

He said, "Naturally people would wonder if they had all been set by the same person, but I have been assured by the investigators there is no connection between those two fires and the fire at the curling rink."

Island Stowaways Land in Australia

'Jail Beats Unemployment'

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Two Canadian stowaways said today they would rather stay in an Australian jail than be sent back to unemployment in Canada.

Hilare Bernier, 26, a seaman, and Richard Bernier, 21, a bank clerk and no relation, reached Sydney Friday locked in the hospital of the Swedish freighter Mercia.

The two men, whose home towns were not reported, said they stowed away from Vancouver Island.

LEFT NANAIMO

The Mercia's last stop during her last trip to B.C. was in Nanaimo, which she left Oct. 21 with lumber for Japan and Australia.

The men said they both had jobs, but the cost of living in Canada was too high and there was no future for them.

They were attracted to Australia by tales of the wages earned on the Snowy Mountains plan.

CABLE LOCKER

The men hid in an aft cable locker in the Mercia three weeks ago, and gave themselves up when the ship had been at sea 12 hours.

They worked as deckhands on the voyage.

"We hope the immigration department here will give us temporary papers until we can get our passports, but if they send us back we will stay away again," one of the stowaways said.

"We would like better to be in jail here than be on the street in Canada without a job," he said.

The two men were taken to an immigration detention centre. An immigration department spokesman said the department was examining the case.

Qualicum Names Committee

QUALICUM BEACH—Five of the eight positions have been filled on the village recreation committee established in a by-law adopted recently by Qualicum Beach council.

Charles Darkis will represent the village council, Bert Campbell the Legion branch, George Cooper the skating and curling club, George Chamberlayne the school board and Mrs. Verona Sharman the village at large.

TWO TO COME

Two more at-large representatives and a Rotary Club member must still be named.

Council also approved the voters' list of 753 names, compared to 737 last year, after no appeals were made to the recent court of revision.

Angry Septuagenarian to Fight City's 'Raw Deal'

LAKE COWICHAN—Rev. Dr. R. B. Horsfield, minister of the three local Anglican churches, will leave the district next week to become rector of Salt Spring Island. The congregations will attend a farewell service Sunday, followed by a social hour. Capt. William Whitehouse will move to Lake Cowichan from Youbou to take over Dr. Horsfield's duties.

ELDERLY CITY RESIDENT

The elderly city resident is objecting to the stipulation that a building in non-conforming use reverts to residential if it is left vacant for 30 days or more.

Her decision to go to the premier comes after she wrote to city council this week charging the city applied this section to give her "a raw deal."

THIS IS THE COMPLEX STORY:

More than 50 years ago, Mrs. Weeks and her husband bought a lot at 230 Haliburton. Cabins were built on the property.

About 10 years later, Mrs. Weeks was asked to build a garage and repair shop, so the cabins were torn down. The garage was rented continuously until this summer when a Nanaimo man offered to buy the property and building and use the latter as a repair shop.

The tenant left and the buyer moved in, but later in the summer he left and removed his equipment.

She then received a second offer from a buyer for the garage, which now held a status of non-conforming use in a residential zone.

Mrs. Weeks says she went to Vancouver at the end of September and on her return, she phoned a real estate salesman who, she thought, had completed the deal by then.

It was then she was told the building had reverted to residential zoning because it had been vacant more than 30 days and she couldn't sell it as a garage.

Mrs. Weeks complaint is that she was never notified by the city of the date of the zoning change.

A city official suggested she have the building torn down and a duplex built in its place, but Mrs. Weeks indicates she thinks the suggestion is impractical.

"I'm 74 years old," she says. "I'm not going to start tearing down buildings. I don't see why it can't stay the way it is. I'm going to fight the damned thing."

When the matter came before city council Ald. Douglas Greer said the 30-day period is "a very stringent provision" and suggested a resolution to the next B.C. municipal convention that the time be lengthened to 90 days.

Council tabled the matter for further investigation.

Library Planner Requested

DUNCAN—The Cowichan district school board has decided to ask the B.C. education department to consider the appointment of a provincial school library co-ordinator.

The request will follow another board decision, to spend $15,000 next year for the purchase of library textbooks for the Maple Bay, Somers-Tanor, Duncan and Alexander elementary schools.

Three local teachers met the board to outline the needs of the schools under a three-year requisition: J. J. Gillatt, principal of Duncan Elementary; Gerry Watson, principal of Maple Bay Elementary; and Mrs. A. H. Harder, librarian.

MONTREAL (UPI)—Some 30 Negro and white pickets from the Syracuse, N.Y., chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality Friday picketed a downtown hotel while the World Public Relations convention was in progress.

The pickets demanded that the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. end its "policy of racial terrorism and integrate its work force."

Layoffs Sweep Away Records of Layoffs

EAST FARMINGDALE, N.Y. (UPI)—Employment at Republic Aviation Co. has reached an all-time low because of the phase-out of the F-105 fighter-bomber. But the company admits it doesn't know how low.

A Republic spokesman explained the firm was unable to keep track of the number of workers being laid off because "some of the people who keep the records were laid off."

Indirect Aid to UN

Door Left Open For Soviet Offer

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United States in effect has invited the Soviet Union to make an indirect payment to solve the dispute over its debt to United Nations peace-keeping funds.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, after a meeting with Secretary General U Thant, said Friday his government would be satisfied with payments by the Soviet Union "in any form" without prejudice to the legal position of the Soviet Union "or anyone else."

WILL LEAD MOVE
If no solution is found when the General Assembly convenes Dec. 1, the U.S. will lead a move to take away Soviet voting rights on the grounds its debt now exceeds two years' assessments.

The Soviet Union has hinted that it might walk out if it is refused a vote.
Stevenson's statement left the door open for the Russians to make a voluntary contribution to some UN agency not connected with peace-keeping. This

By BOB DONAHUE

Health Minister Eric Martin Friday called the administration of the Royal Jubilee Hospital "empire builders" and cited "months of maladministration" at the hospital.

He was commenting on a suggestion by Dr. D. S. Wherry, chief of the medical staff at the Jubilee, that the Veterans' Hospital be taken over as a convalescent wing to the Jubilee.

"If the federal government did take control of the hospital over to the province I would recommend it not be turned over to the Royal Jubilee because of months of maladministration."

"The situation will only improve when the administration of that hospital ceases to be empire builders," said the minister.

He blamed the increased length of stay for patients at the hospital on "lack of proper medical supervision."

Mr. Martin was critical of the general administration and medical supervision.

NO SPARRING

"The patient days at the Jubilee have increased to 11.1 from 10.8 last year. This has deprived 500 persons of hospital beds since the beginning of the year," he said.

"There has been no sparring between the federal and provincial governments over transfer of the Veterans' Hospital," he said. "They haven't even suggested it."

"They just won't lie down—those people who are making all these wild statements," said the minister.

FEELINGS CLEAR

Meanwhile, Royal Canadian Legion officials leveled a broadside at any suggestion the Veterans' Hospital be taken over to alleviate the bed shortage in Greater Victoria.

Declared vice commander E. J. Mayne: "We don't have to go around answering any stray MD. Our feelings have been made abundantly clear."

EASY WAY OUT

"I'm glad this bed problem has been given a good airing. It pinpoints they are having problems of their own. They should work them out on their own."

"Taking over our hospital is only adopting the least line of resistance. It is an easy way out for them," he declared.

15-Cent City Bus Fare Urged for All-Diesel Fleet

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 2½ to five cent fare increase to finance a changeover to diesel buses was proposed Friday for the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority's transit system.

John Curtin of Philadelphia, a transit consultant, made the proposal at a Public Utilities Commission hearing into Hydro's proposed fare increases in Vancouver and Victoria.

NECESSARY AMOUNT
The 2½ to five cent increase would raise the estimated $16,000,000 necessary for the changeover from electric trolley and gasoline buses, he said.

His proposal followed an earlier statement by Thomas Peacock, another transit consultant, that Hydro would save $275,000 a year by switching to an all-diesel fleet.

TEN MUNICIPALITIES
Both consultants are working for 10 Vancouver and Victoria municipalities which are fighting Hydro's proposal to raise fares to 25 cents cash from 15 cents here and 13 cents in Victoria.

Mr. Curtin proposed a cash fare of 20 cents cash and two tokens for 35 cents in Vancouver. For Victoria, he proposed an increase to 15 cents cash. Mr. Curtin said his proposal could offset a projected debt of $3,800,000 this year.

Syrian Border

Planes End Battle

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israeli warplanes destroyed Syrian border posts with napalm and gunfire Friday after a ground battle set off by Syrian shooting, an Israeli military spokesman announced. He said two Israeli civilians were wounded in the two-hour fight.

Meanwhile, a Syrian military spokesman said seven Syrians were killed and 26 others wounded in the clash.

GUNS, TANKS

The Israeli spokesman said the Syrians started the fight with machine-gun fire, then lobbed in mortar shells and finally brought up two Second World War tanks.

The spokesman said the tanks were knocked out by fire from two Israeli tanks.

13th Adds Insult To Injury

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The next time Friday the 13th rolls around, Oakville farmer Don Chapman will probably stay in bed.

Mr. Chapman left for work in nearby Clarkson as usual Friday and, along the way, hit a dog. While trying unsuccessfully to avoid the animal, he drove his car into the ditch. That blew a tire.

He left his car to attend to the injured dog. The dog bit him, tearing his pants.

He changed the tire on his car and drove home to change his clothes. There he discovered he had locked himself out of the house.

Going in by a cellar window, Mr. Chapman put his foot in a tub of home-made beer he was preparing for Christmas.

He finally got to work, late of course, and was informed that he would be docked an hour's pay.
